Altsheler, 2007-04-01 The Lords of the Wild Joseph Alexander Altsheler, 2006-02 Excerpt thrilled at Willet's words Yes in spite of every danger that had been thrown across their path they would be able to carry word in time We'll be there in half an hour and we'll know what's going forward said Willet We'll know before then said Grosvenor confidently Our marvelous Indian friend here will tell us when we're half way Tayoga smiled but said nothing and they started again Willet as usual leading and the Onondaga bringing up the rear The spire of smoke thickened and darkened and to Robert and Grosvenor it seemed most friendly and alluring It appeared to rise from a little point of land thrust into the lake but they could not yet see its base owing to an intervening hill Just before they reached the crest of the hill Tayoga said Wait a moment Great Bear I think I hear a sound from the place where the smoke rises and we may be able to tell what it means They stopped promptly and the Onondaga put his ear to the earth I hear the sounds very distinctly now he said They are of a kind not often occurring on these shores What are they asked Robert eagerly They are made by axes biting into wood Many men are cutting down trees They're building a fort and they're in a hurry about it or they would not be felling trees so early in the morning Your reasoning about the hurry is good Dagaëoga The white man will not go into the forest with his ax at daybreak unless the need of haste is great but it is not a fort they build Mingled with the fall of the axes I hear another note It is a humming and a buzzing It is heard in these forests much less often than the thud of the ax Ah I was in doubt at first but I know it now It is the sound made by a great saw as it eats into the wood A saw mill Tayoga Yes Dagaëoga that is what it is and now mind will tell us why it is here The logs that the axes cut down are sawed in the mill The saw would not be needed if the logs were to be used The Lords of the Wild Joseph Alexander Altsheler, 1925 A story of the French and Indian War as seen through the eyes of three friends The Lords of the Wild - Scholar's Choice Edition Joseph A. Mynheer Jacobus Huysman walked to the window and looked out at the neat red brick houses the grass now turning yellow and the leaves more brown than green. He was troubled in truth his heart lay very heavy within him. He was thinking over the terrible news that had come so swiftly as evil report has a way of doing. But he had cause for satisfaction too and recalling it he turned to gaze once more upon the two lads who escaping so many perils had arrived at the shelter of his home. Robert and Tayoga were thin and worn their clothing was soiled and torn but youth was youth and they were forgetting dangers past in a splendid dinner that the fat Caterina was serving for them while Mynheer Jacobus her master stood by and saw the good deed well done. The dining room large and furnished solidly was wonderful in its neatness and comfort. The heavy mahogany of table sideboard and chairs was polished and gleaming. No trace of dirt was allowed to linger anywhere. When the door to the adjoining kitchen opened as Caterina passed through pleasant odors floated in inciting the two to fresh efforts at the trencher. It was all as it had been when they were young boys living there attending the school of Alexander McLean and traveling by painful steps along the road to knowledge In its snugness its security and the luxury it offered it was a wonderful contrast to the dark forest where death lurked in every bush Robert drew a long sigh of content and poured himself another cup of coffee Leveled Texts for Classic Fiction: Historical Fiction Christine Dugan,2013-01-01
