Dying in the Twenty-First Century Lydia S. Dugdale, 2017-07-14 Physicians philosophers and theologians consider how to address death and dying for a diverse population in a secularized century Most of us are generally ill equipped for dying Today we neither see death nor prepare for it But this has not always been the case In the early fifteenth century the Roman Catholic Church published the Ars moriendi texts which established prayers and practices for an art of dying In the twenty first century physicians rely on procedures and protocols for the efficient management of hospitalized patients How can we recapture an art of dying that can facilitate our dying well In this book physicians philosophers and theologians attempt to articulate a bioethical framework for dying well in a secularized diverse society Contributors discuss such topics as the acceptance of human finitude the role of hospice and palliative medicine spiritual preparation for death and the relationship between community and individual autonomy They also consider special cases including children elderly patients with dementia and death in the early years of the AIDS epidemic when doctors could do little more than accompany their patients in humble solidarity These chapters make the case for a robust bioethics one that could foster both the contemplation of finitude and the cultivation of community that would be necessary for a contemporary art of dying well Contributors Jeffrey P Bishop Lisa Sowle Cahill Daniel Callahan Farr A Curlin Lydia S Dugdale Michelle Harrington John Lantos Stephen R Latham M Therese Lysaught Autumn Alcott Ridenour Peter A Selwyn Daniel Sulmasy
