Margaret Macdonald Imperial Daughter Footprints Series:

Margaret Macdonald Susan Mann, 2005 As a pioneer in her field who helped pave the way for women to participate in the Canadian military Margaret Macdonald's story is one worth reading Canadian Military History Margaret Macdonald Susan Mann, 2005-09-01 During an era of separate spheres for men and women Margaret Macdonald used her nurse's training to gain access to the military and a life of work travel and adventure In 1906 she was one of the first two nurses to receive a permanent appointment to the Canadian Army Medical Corps She became matron in chief of Canada's overseas nursing service during World War I with the rank of major the first such appointment for a woman in the British Empire Macdonald also served as a nurse in the military during the Spanish American and Boer Wars and in Panama during the construction of the canal Margaret Macdonald traces the life and work of this extraordinary woman from rural Nova Scotia whose sense of duty and ambition found an outlet in the imperialism of Great Britain and the US Susan Mann weaves the threads of character ideology and opportunity into a vivid portrait of Macdonald and her impact on the professionalization of military nursing

Expect Miracles David M. Culver, Alan Freeman, 2014-04-01 Expect Miracles is the personal and professional story of a leader in the worlds of business and culture David Culver narrates his journey from his upbringing in Montreal's Golden Square Mile through his studies at McGill and Harvard his army service during the Second World War to his impressive rise at Alcan to become chairman and chief executive officer of one of Canada's leading multinational corporations The memoir provides an inside look into the management of a global company with roots deeply planted in Quebec and offers pragmatic advice on how to grow talent foster technology and handle adversity in a far flung organization Anecdotes of meeting the likes of Margaret Thatcher Henry Kissinger and Jawaharlal Nehru reveal the experiences of a strong corporate leader who continued to live a Montreal life while never losing his interest in discovering the world A man of many interests and talents Culver reflects on his long love affair with architecture and his efforts to restore and preserve Montreal's heritage by creating Maison Alcan and how music and sport helped shape his life Expect Miracles is evidence of Culver's positive outlook and belief that the most extraordinary things can happen when you least expect them

In the Eye of the Wind Ron Baenninger, Martin Baenninger, 2009-03-01 Yokohama a quiet fishing village when Commodore Matthew Perry arrived with his gunboat diplomacy in the mid 1800s was quickly transformed into a bustling port for international trade The change brought affluent foreigners to the city but also mobilized Japanese nationalist hostilities It was in this setting that Ron and Martin Baenninger's Canadian mother and Swiss father met in 1933 Relying on Ron's early memories their mother's diary and the acute memory of their father who lived to be over one hundred the Baenningers recount the initial years of their parents marriage and provide glimpses into relations between Japan and the West from the turn of the century to the onset of the Second World War In their earliest years together the young couple enjoyed a rich social life travelling freely between Canada Switzerland and Japan although aware of the political turmoil slowing unfolding around them The outbreak of the war between Japan and the United States and allied powers brought their privileged lifestyle to an end In August 1942 they escaped internment with their young son aboard the Kamakura Maru one of the many exchange ships assigned to bring foreign nationals home and the last evacuation vessel from Japan and negotiated their way through war torn areas to reach Canada four months later In the Eye of the Wind both a deeply personal account of one family and a unique perspective on the politically turbulent atmosphere of pre war Japan will interest anyone seeking to learn more about a tumultuous period in an extraordinary place Dal and Rice Wendy M. Davis,2008-12-22 In 1914 Godfrey

Davis arrived in India a junior officer in the Indian Civil Service By the time he reluctantly returned to England thirty years later he was a high court judge with a knighthood Sir Godfrey fell in love with India He sympathized with the independence movement and shared a great friendship and mutual admiration with Mahatma Gandhi Teeth of Time Ramsay

Cook,2006-08-10 Pierre Elliott Trudeau and Ramsay Cook were friends for nearly four decades A passion for the intellectual life drew them together but their friendship focused more on politics once Trudeau became prime minister In The Teeth of Time Cook reflects on his relationship with Trudeau and the tensions created when one friend achieves political power and the other struggles to find the balance among his roles as detached scholar and teacher involved citizen and personal friend

Smitten by Giraffe Anne Innis Dagg,2016-10-01 When Anne Innis saw her first giraffe at the age of three she was smitten She knew she had to learn more about this marvellous animal Twenty years later now a trained zoologist she set off alone to Africa to study the behaviour of giraffe in the wild Subsequently Jane Goodall and Dian Fossey would be driven by a similar devotion to study the behaviour of wild apes In Smitten by Giraffe the noted feminist reflects on her scientific work as well as the leading role she has played in numerous activist campaigns On returning home to Canada Anne married physicist Ian Dagg had three children published a number of scientific papers taught at several local universities and in 1967 earned her PhD in biology at the University of Waterloo Dagg was continually frustrated in her efforts to secure a position as a tenured professor despite her many publications and exemplary teaching record Finally she opted instead to pursue her research as an independent citizen scientist while working part time as an academic advisor Dagg would spend many years fighting against the marginalization of women in the arts and sciences Boldly documenting widespread sexism in universities while also discussing Dagg s involvement with important zoological topics such as homosexuality infanticide sociobiology and taxonomy Smitten by Giraffe offers an inside perspective on the workings of scientific research and debate the history of academia and the rise of second wave feminism A new preface relates Dagg s experience as the subject of the documentary The Woman Who Loves Giraffes Georges and Pauline Vanier Mary Frances Coady,2011-07-25 Georges and Pauline Vanier follows their lives and travels across the world from Canadian military life to the League of Nations from the inner circles of British government to their harrowing escape from Nazi occupied France detailing their disappointments and triumphs during social and political turbulence With insight and sympathy Mary Frances Coady tells their dramatic personal story Revealing their remarkably vibrant personalities she details the couple's support of the French resistance as well as Georges Vanier's pleas for the Canadian government to accept refugees fleeing Hitler's horrors and his effort to broaden immigration policy She also recounts the importance of their religious convictions their controversial standing among Quebecers and their early advocacy of official bilingualism An invigorating and well told tale of their lasting legacies Georges and Pauline Vanier is the definitive account of the enduring contributions the Vaniers made to the world and to their country
