contributions make up this anthology Library Journal I'm Going to College—Not You! Jennifer Delahunty, 2010-08-31 Acceptance by a top college is more than a gold star on a high school graduate's forehead today. It has morphed into the ultimate good parenting stamp of approval: the better the bumper sticker, the better the parent. Right? Parents of juniors and seniors in high school fret over SAT scores and essays, obsessed with getting their kids into the right college while their children push for independence. I'm Going to College—Not You! is a resource for parents written by parents who've been in their shoes. Kenyon College dean Jennifer Delahunty shares her unique perspective and her daughter's on one of the toughest periods of parenting and has assembled a top-notch group of writers that includes best-selling authors, college professors, and admissions directors and journalists. Their experiences with the difficult balancing act between control freak and resource answer questions like: how can a parent be less of a helicopter hovering and more of a booster rocket uplifting? What do you do when your child wants to put off college to become a rock star and how will you keep from wanting to kill each other? Contributors include Jane Hamilton, David Latt, Neal Pollack, Joe Queenan, Anne Roark, Debra Shaver, Anna Quindlen, Ellen Waterston. The Emotional Lives of Animals & Children William Crain, 2014-10-17 In 2008, Bill Crain, a professor of psychology at The City College of New York, and his wife Ellen, a pediatrician, opened Safe Haven Farm Sanctuary in Poughquag, New York. The sanctuary provides a permanent home to over 70 animals rescued from slaughter and abusive situations, including goats, sheep, chickens, turkeys, ducks, partridges, and a mini horse. It also has afforded Bill a tremendous opportunity to observe animals in all manner of emotional states and how their behavior casts light on the emotions of human children. In The Emotional Lives of Animals and Children, Crain honors the work of John Bowlby, a psychoanalyst who began his major writings in the 1950s. Bowlby drew on biologists' observations of animals to provide a compelling account of children's attachment to their caretakers. Today, the study of attachment is extremely popular. Crain writes, but one would hardly know that the initial inspiration came from observations of non-human animals. Moreover, there has been little effort to extend Bowlby's work to see how the study of animals illuminates other aspects of child development. Crain suggests that the reluctance to follow Bowlby's lead reflects the Western worldview that considers humans as different from and superior to other species. To think about children in the same category as animals seems to demean children. But Crain discovered that the farm animals' emotional behaviors can help us understand those of human children. The Emotional Lives of Animals and Children is divided into two parts. Part one discusses six emotional behaviors that are shared by animals and children: fear, play, freedom, care, spirituality, and resilience. Part two addresses the broader social theme of our Western culture's disparagement of animals. Initially, children do not set themselves apart from nature but experience it with an instinctive empathy. However, they are eventually taught by our society to detach themselves and to devalue animals. Crain writes, "As people attempt to move beyond society's dominant views of animals, they can also draw on a neglected idea that goes back to ancient times. This is the view that there is a special wisdom in the child's ways of knowing. This view is found in the ancient
