Landscapes of Dread in Classical Antiquity Debbie Felton,2018-04-27 Over the last two decades research in cultural geography and landscape studies has influenced many humanities fields including Classics and has increasingly drawn our attention to the importance of spaces and their contexts both geographical and social how spaces are described by language what spaces are used for by individuals and communities and how language use and the passage of time invest spaces with meaning In addition to this spatial turn in scholarship recent years have also seen an emotive turn an increased interest in the study of emotion in literature Many works on landscape in classical antiquity focus on themes such as the sacred and the pastoral and the emotions such spaces evoke such as respectively feelings of awe or tranquillity in settings both urban and rural Far less scholarship has been generated by the locus terribilis the space associated with negative emotions because of the bad things that happen there In short the recent emotive turn in humanities studies has so far largely neglected several of the more negative emotions including anxiety fear terror and dread The papers in this volume focus on those neglected negative emotions especially dread and they do so while treating many types of space including domestic suburban rural and virtual and while covering many genres and authors including the epic poems of Homer Greek tragedy Roman poetry and historiography medical writing paradoxography and the short story

Spatharas, 2017

The study of emotions and emotional displays has achieved a deserved prominence in recent classical scholarship The emotions of the classical world can be plumbed to provide a valuable heuristic tool Emotions can help us understand key issues of ancient ethics ideological assumptions and normative behaviors but more frequently than not classical scholars have turned their attention to social emotions requiring practical decisions and ethical judgments in public and private gatherings The emotion of disgust has been unwarrantedly neglected even though it figures saliently in many literary genres such as iambic poetry and comedy historiography and even tragedy and philosophy This collection of seventeen essays by fifteen authors features the emotion of disgust as one cutting edge of the study of Greek and Roman antiquity Individual contributions explore a wide range of topics These include the semantics of the emotion both in Greek and Latin literature its social uses as a means of marginalizing individuals or groups of individuals such as politicians judged deviant or witches its role in determining aesthetic judgments and its potentialities as an elicitor of aesthetic pleasure The papers also discuss the vocabulary and uses of disgust in life Galli actors witches homosexuals and in many literary genres ancient theater oratory satire poetry medicine historiography Hellenistic didactic and fable and the Roman novel The Introduction addresses key methodological issues concerning the nature of the emotion its cognitive structure and modern approaches to it It also outlines the differences between ancient and modern disgust and emphasizes the appropriateness of projective or second level disgust vilification as a means of marginalizing unwanted types of behavior and stigmatizing morally condemnable categories of individuals The volume is addressed first to scholars who work in the field of classics but since texts involving disgust also exhibit significant cultural variation the essays will attract the attention of scholars who work in a wide spectrum of disciplines including history social psychology philosophy anthropology comparative literature and cross cultural studies

Toni Morrison's 'Beloved' Justine Tally, 2008-11-18 This work expands the scope of Morrison's project to examine the ways and means of memory in the preservation of belief systems passed down from the earliest civilizations both the Classical Greek and the Ancient Egyptian as a challenge to the sterility of modernity Moreover this research explores the author's specific use of Foucauldian theory as a vehicle for her narrative which reclaims the very origins of civilization's primal concerns with life procreation and regeneration springing from the very Heart of Africa Despite the weight of white authority and the disparaging of blackness Beloved's multiple ghosts conjure up a legacy so potent that no authoritarian discourse has been able to entirely erase it a legacy that still speaks to us from a heritage we
