cinema dominated by sober realism His distinct style combined realism with fictional devices often in audacious ways to create the biographical docudrama In Ken Russell Interviews the filmmaker discusses his colorful life and career from his youth fascinated by movies to his early work in television through his feature films and his retreat to home movies Russell first drew notice in the early 1960s for a series of unorthodox biographical films about artists and composers In these early television films Russell was already exhibiting an unconventional approach to biography that combined historical fact aesthetic interpretation and outlandish personal vision After the critical and commercial success of his adaptation of D H Lawrence s Women in Love Russell continued to explore the related themes of art sexuality and music in The Music Lovers The Boy Friend Mahler Tommy and Lisztomania His career foundered after Valentino however and he found it increasingly difficult to get funding Toward the end of his career Russell was restricted to making movies with his own equipment using family and friends as actors with virtually no budget Throughout the ups and downs of his career Russell alternately embraced and resented his characterization as an enfant terrible While Russell s comments are often meant to provoke and shock he is articulate when discussing his films his approach to cinema music and composers and of course his critics
