Women's Authorship Melanie Hawthorne,2001-01-01 Under the assumed name Rachilde Marguerite Eymery 1860 1953 wrote over sixty works of fiction drama poetry memoir and criticism including Monsieur V nus one of the most famous examples of decadent fiction She was closely associated with the literary journal Mercure de France inspired parts of Oscar Wilde s The Picture of Dorian Gray and mingled with all the literary lights of the day Yet for all that very little has been written about her Melanie C Hawthorne corrects this oversight and counters the traditional approach to Rachilde by persuasively portraying this eccentric as patently representative of the French women writers of her time and of the social and literary issues they faced Seen in this light Rachilde s writing clearly illustrates important questions in feminist literary theory as well as significant features of turn of the century French society Hawthorne arranges her approach to Rachilde around several defining events in the author s life including the controversial publication of Monsieur V nus with its presentation of sex reversals Weaving back and forth in time she is able to depict these moments in relation to Rachilde s life work and times and to illuminate nineteenth century publishing practices and rivalries including authorial manipulations of the market for sexually suggestive literature The most complete and accurate account yet written of this emblematic author Hawthorne s work is also the first to situate Rachilde in the broader social contexts and literary currents of her time and of our own

Impersonals and other Agent Defocusing Constructions in French Michel Achard,2015-01-14 This book investigates French impersonals as a functional category Any structure whose agent is defocused and whose predicate describes a situation stable enough to be generally available should be considered impersonal In addition to il impersonals the category also includes demonstrative ce a middle se and indefinite on structures These different forms belong to the same functional category because they systematically code general and predictable events that cannot be imputed to a specific cause Because generality and predictability are gradual notions impersonals can only be identified within the context of specific constructional islands which therefore constitute the organizing principle of the French impersonal category Conducted in Cognitive Grammar the analysis follows the functional tradition in expanding the scope of French impersonals beyond il constructions but also proposes a way of precisely delineating the category This book will be of interest to anyone interested in impersonal constructions and French linguistics

The Dynamics of Gender in Early Modern France Domna C. Stanton, 2016-03-23 In its six case studies The Dynamics of Gender in Early Modern France works out a model for early modern gender which is articulated in the introduction The book comprises essays on the construction of women three in texts by male and three by female writers including Racine F nelon Poulain de la Barre in the first part La Guette La Fayette and S vign in the second

These studies thus also take up different genres satire tragedy and treatise memoir novella and letter writing Since gender is a relational construct each chapter considers as well specific textual and contextual representations of men In every instance Stanton looks for signs of conformity to and deviations from normative gender scripts The Dynamics of Gender adds a new dimension to early modern French literary and cultural studies it incorporates a dynamic shifting theory of gender and it engages both contemporary critical theory and literary historical readings of primary texts and established concepts in the field This book emphasizes the central importance of historical context and close reading from a feminist perspective which it also interrogates as a practice The Afterword examines some of the meanings of reading as a feminist

So Close Hélène Cixous, 2009 In So Close the internationally renowned writer Hélène Cixous recounts a return to her native Algeria after a more than thirty year absence Before she can decide to go she must sift through large parts of her past in a land where she never felt at home and from a young age knew she must leave Above all she must confront the depths of her mother's rejection of the country that had rejected her despite years of devotion to the poor women of Algiers As she is struggling with this decision she receives a message from Zohra Drif with whom she has had no contact since their school days which was just before Zohra joined the Algerian FLN and became a heroine in the uprising against French rule in her homeland They meet in Paris for the first time in more than fifty years and soon afterward the narrator departs for Algiers The latter part of the narrative brings a rush of sensations impressions memories and new encounters as the narrator revisits sites from her past in Algiers and especially in Oran the city of her birth the city of the family's happiness before her father's death when she was a young girl The quest to find his grave again in the overgrown Jewish cemetery of Algiers leads to a startlingly moving scene that closes the voyage and the book The Strange M. Proust Andre Benhaim, 2017-07-05

The strange M Proust the narrator the author and the embodiment of A la Recherche du Temps perdu is now so canonical a writer that his very strangeness is easily overlooked His book made of other books his epic composed of extraordinary miniatures his orderly structure where every law is subverted his chronology where time can be undone and his geography where places can superimpose in these and many other ways Proust continues to astonish even readers who have engaged with him for their entire careers In this book arising from the Princeton symposium of 2006 major critics come together to offer provocative readings of a work which is at the same time classical and unusual French and foreign familiar and strange The book is dedicated to the memory of Malcolm Bowie 1943 2007 whose keynote address was one of his last major lectures Other contributors include David Ellison Anne Simon Eugene Nicole Joseph Brami Raymonde Coudert Christie McDonald Michael Wood and Antoine Compagnon La France Claude Rivière, 1919 Marcel Proust and Spanish America Herbert E. Craig, 2002 Craig begins by attributing the early introduction of the Recherche to the intimate friendship between Proust and the pianist composer Reynaldo Hahn who was born in Caracas He then shows in chapter 1 how literary critics of the principal newspapers and literary magazines of such countries as Venezuela Argentina and Chile examined this French text which we know today as one of the fundamental works of modernism Shortly thereafter interest in the Recherche spread to Cuba Mexico Uruguay and Colombia Eventually it would be read in all parts of the New World Over the years Spanish Americans have continued to write about the Recherche and have published several noteworthy books on it which are included in the comprehensive bibliography which serves as an appendix BOOK JACKET The Review , 1919
