Our Own People I was quite a child when I read Uncle Tom s Cabin by Mrs Harriet Beecher Stowe and became enthusiastic for the abolition of slavery Myheart was full of anxious thought on this subject Later in life the tragedy of Toussaint L Ouverture by Lamartine opened my mind to fresh considerations After reading it I apprehended that the sons of Ham have precisely the same human as well as civil rights as have the sons of Shem and of Japheth The passionate interest which my uncle Victor Hugo took in the fate of the generous but unfortunate John Brown further fixed myattention on this question which has humanitarian as well as social aspects And when recently reading books and articles relating to the subject of the emancipation of Africa s sons I have added indignation to compassion It is not right to reduce the ethics of that important question to the proportions of a mere work of mercy It ought to be regarded as one of the gravest questions of our time the final blow struck at an old tree which mould has long invaded and rotted This great question of the emancipation of the African race has more than one interesting aspect About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of
