Lyn McGaurr, 2015-07-16 Travel journalism about natural attractions is environmental communication at the cusp of consumerism and concern. Countries and regions that market forests, rivers and wildlife to international tourists drive place of origin brand recognition that benefits exporters in other sectors. Place branding in such destinations is not just PR for environmentally sustainable development and consumption but also a political enterprise. Environmental Communication and Travel Journalism considers tourism public relations as elite reputation management and applies models of political conflict and source media relations to the analysis of the soft genre of travel journalism. The book seeks to understand how in whose interests and against what odds discourses of cosmopolitanism and place branding influence the way travel journalists represent vulnerable and contested environments. Informed by interviews with journalists and their sources, Environmental Communication and Travel Journalism identifies and theorises networks, cultures, discursive strategies and multiple loyalties that can assist or interrupt flows of environmental concern in the cosmopolitan public sphere. The book should be of interest to scholars of environmental communication, environmental politics, journalism, tourism, marketing and public relations.

Choondoonga Peter Graham Hyland, 2011-05 After ten years of living the American Dream, a family of four from Boulder, Colorado, departed on a year-long overland adventure. Down Under Tag along for 35,000 literary kilometers with the Hylands as they crisscross the Australian continent exploring nature and meeting people all the while learning how to live in the present. Part memoir and part travel guide book, Choondoonga is proof that escape from the rat race is possible and good for the soul.
