Looking Up Rachel Whitereads Water Tower:

Rachel Whiteread - Looking Up Rachel Whiteread, Louise Neri, 1999-05 Rachel Whiteread's Water Tower began in 1994 with an invitation by New York's Public Art Fund to visit New York City. After almost four years of planning on June 7, 1998, the Water Tower was installed on a rooftop at West Broadway and Grand in the heart of SoHo. This book documents in words and pictures all stages of producing this complex yet simple private sculpture in public space. Jerry Saltz, Village Voice art critic, We experience the early phase by taking a look into Whiteread's private notebooks; we take part in tracing the site search through New York; we hear about the technical difficulties of producing a translucent glass-like resin tank; and we listen to numerous comments of art aficionados and passers-by from the street. Luc Sante tells us about the nature of water towers. Molly Nesbitt provides us with a social and art historical perspective on the topic. Neville Wakefield reveals unknown facts on the nature of water and water towers, and Tom Eccles, director of the Public Art Fund, tells us the story of how Whiteread's Water Tower came to life in detail. This comprehensive volume is a must for every contemporary art library.

Looking Up Louise Neri, 1999      Rachel Whiteread Rachel Whiteread, 2005      Women Artists at the Millennium Carol Armstrong, Catherine De Zegher, 2011-02-25 Artists, art historians, and critics look at the legacies of feminism and critical theory in the work of women artists more than thirty years after the beginning of the modern women's movement and Linda Nochlin's landmark essay "Why Have There Been No Great Women Artists?" More than thirty years after the birth of the modern women's movement and the beginnings of feminist art making and art history, the time is ripe to examine the legacies of those revolutions. In Women Artists at the Millennium, artists, art historians, and critics examine the differences that feminist art practice and critical theory have made in late twentieth-century art and the discourses surrounding it. In 1971, when Linda Nochlin published her essay "Why Have There Been No Great Women Artists?" in a special issue of Art News, there were no women's studies, no feminist theory, no such thing as feminist art criticism; there was instead a focus on the mythic figure of the great male artist through history. Since then, the woman artist has not simply been assimilated into the canon of greatness but has expanded art making into a multiplicity of practices with new parameters and perspectives. In Women Artists at the Millennium, artists including Martha Rosler and Yvonne Rainer reflect upon their own varied practices, and art historians discuss the innovative work of such figures as Louise Bourgeois, Lygia Clark, Mona Hatoum, and Carrie Mae Weems. And Linda Nochlin considers changes since her landmark essay and looks to the future, writing, "We will need all our wit and courage to make sure that women's voices are heard, their work seen and written about." Concrete and Culture Adrian Forty, 2013-02-15 Concrete has been used in arches vaults and domes dating as far back as the Roman Empire Today it is everywhere in our roads bridges sidewalks walls and architecture For each person on the planet nearly three tons of concrete are produced every year Used almost universally in modern construction concrete has become a polarizing material that provokes intense loathing in some and fervent passion in others Focusing on concrete's effects on culture rather than its technical properties Concrete and Culture examines the ways concrete has changed our understanding of nature of time and even of material Adrian Forty concentrates not only on architects' responses to concrete but also takes into account the role concrete has played in politics literature cinema labor relations and arguments about sustainability Covering Europe North and South America and the Far East Forty examines the degree that concrete has been responsible for modernist uniformity and the debates engendered by it The first book to reflect on the global consequences of concrete Concrete and Culture offers a new way to look at our environment over the past century

Making Memory Matter Lisa Saltzman, 2006-10-02 In an ancient account of painting's origins a woman traces the shadow of her departing lover on the wall in an act that anticipates future grief and commemoration Lisa Saltzman shows here that nearly two thousand years after this story was first told contemporary artists are returning to similar strategies of remembrance ranging from vaudevillian silhouettes and sepulchral casts to incinerated architectures and ghostly processions Exploring these artists' work Saltzman demonstrates that their methods have now eclipsed painting and traditional sculpture as preeminent forms of visual representation She pays particular attention to the groundbreaking art of Krzysztof Wodiczko who is known for his projections of historical subjects Kara Walker who creates powerful silhouetted images of racial violence in American history and Rachel Whiteread whose work centers on making casts of empty interior spaces Each of the artists Saltzman discusses is struggling with the roles that history and memory have come to play in an age when any historical statement is subject to question and doubt In identifying this new and powerful movement she provides a framework for understanding the art of our time

From Models to Drawings Marco Frascari, Jonathan Hale, Bradley Starkey, 2013-09-13 This edited collection addresses the vital role of the imagination in the critical interpretation of architectural representations By challenging the contemporary tendency for computer aided drawings to become mere models for imitation in the construction of buildings the articles explore the broader range of methods and meanings at stake in the creation and interpretation of architectural drawings models images and artefacts These critical and often practice led investigations are placed alongside a range of historical studies considering the development of representational techniques such as perspective orthography and diagramming By also addressing the use of visual representation in a number of related disciplines such as visual arts film performance and literature the book opens up debates in architecture to important developments in other fields This book is key reading for all students of architecture and architectural theory

Frieze Art Fair Yearbook, 2004 Rachel Whiteread's Water Tower Louise Neri, 1999 Urban Futures Tim Hall, Malcolm

Miles, 2004-11-23 Urban Futures brings together commentaries from a wide range of contemporary disciplines and fields relevant to urban culture form and society The book concerns cities in the broadest sense not just as buildings and spaces but also as processes and events or sites of occupation in which meanings are constructed in many ways The contributors draw on their specialist areas of research to inform current debate but they also speculate as to how cities will be shaped in the 21st century Specific areas of research include homeless people's organisations and restoration ecology in brownfield sites in the USA post industrial urban landscapes post industrial economics tourism and cultural planning The book allows each writer to state their own conclusions but together they suggest that tomorrow's cities will while remaining locations of difference and contestation be rapidly evolving systems in which dwellers assume increasing responsibilities and power

Curatorial Intervention Brett M. Levine, 2021-05-18 Curatorial Intervention History and Current Practice is a critical analysis of the dynamic roles curators play in shaping mediating and at times redefining the artist audience exchange Focusing on contemporary curatorial practice this work critically examines the ways in which curators impact artists intentionality and how this alters audiences experiences of reception Through discussions with leading artists curators and arts administrators Brett Levine posits a new paradigm for defining and contextualizing curatorial practice while exploring how the former dialectic of intention and reception is today defined by the triad intention intervention reception After situating the more traditional artist audience relationship he explores how extant theories of the art experience fail to either provide for curatorial practice or contextualize its operations while also overlooking questions of transparency agency and power Offering a new professional and operational model Curatorial Intervention highlights how the artist curator and curator audience relations displace and at times redefine the experience of works of art In response to the disenfranchisement of curatorial practice and the emergence of every act of discernment being transformed into curating as little more than a fashionable pastime the author reasserts the dynamic roles that exist between artist curator and audience and between object operation and experience

The Sculptural Imagination Alex Potts, 2000-01-01 Potts also offers a detailed view of selected iconic works by sculptors ranging from Antonio Canova and Auguste Rodin to Constantin Brancusi David Smith Carl Andre Eva Hesse and Louise Bourgeois key players in modern thinking about the sculptural The impact of minimalism features prominently in this discussion for it disrupted accepted understanding of how a viewer interacts with a work of art thereby placing the phenomenology of viewing three dimensional objects for the first time at the center of debate about modern visual art Jacket

John Knight Andre Rottman, 2014-02-07 Essays and interviews discuss the art of John Knight a pioneering figure in site specific art and institutional critique For more than four decades the elusive but influential Los Angeles based artist John Knight has developed a practice of site specificity that tests both architectural and ideological boundaries of the museum gallery and public sphere Knight's works defy notions of stylistic coherence even at times of instant recognizability Grounded in a sustained method of inhabiting the material discursive and economic conditions of varied sites his works systematically challenge notions of object sign context authorship and value and they confront audiences not only with mailers posters and journals but also with carpenter levels commemorative plates deck chairs bicycle bells flower arrangements and credit cards This volume offers essays and interviews that trace the critical thinking on Knight discussing the artist's trajectory from 1969 to 2011 These texts by such prominent figures as Benjamin H D Buchloh Anne Rorimer Alexander Alberro and Birgit Pelzer offer close readings of Knight s pivotal projects in situ while also considering them in terms of such art historical paradigms as the readymade the anti aesthetic institutional critique and the relationship between art and design as well as corporate culture at large The book provides the first collection of these often hard to find texts on Knight and will serve as an essential guide for further consideration of his oeuvre

Museums and Public Art? Cher Krause Knight, Harriet F. Senie, 2018-06-11

While many museums have ignored public art as a distinct arena of art production and display others have either grudgingly or enthusiastically embraced it Some institutions have partnered with public art agencies to expand the scope of special exhibitions other museums have attempted to establish in house public art programs This is the first book to contextualize the collaborations between museums and public art through a range of essays marked by their coherence of topical focus written by leading and emerging scholars and artists Organized into three sections it represents a major contribution to the field of art history in general and to those of public art and museum studies in particular It includes essays by art historians critics curators arts administrators and artists all of whom help to finally codify the largely unwritten history of how museums and public art have and continue to intersect Key questions are both addressed and offered as topics for further discussion Who originates such public art initiatives funds them and most importantly establishes the philosophy behind them Is the efficacy of these initiatives evaluated in the same way as other museum exhibitions and programs Can public art ever be a permanent feature in any museum And finally are the museum and public art ultimately at odds or able to mutually benefit one another
