

A man and a woman are shown in a dark, possibly stage, setting. The man, on the left, is bald and wearing a red t-shirt with a graphic and a dark jacket. He is leaning forward, looking down. The woman, on the right, has red hair and is wearing a dark, shiny dress. She is looking up with a joyful expression, her mouth open as if laughing or shouting. Numerous blue banknotes are falling all around them, creating a sense of chaos or celebration. The background is dark, and the lighting is focused on the two figures.

Loose Screws Nine New Plays From Poland In Performance:

Imagined Theatres Daniel Sack, 2017-04-07 Imagined Theatres collects theoretical dramas written by some of the leading scholars and artists of the contemporary stage. These dialogues, prose poems, and microfictions describe imaginary performance events that explore what might be possible and impossible in the theatre. Each scenario is mirrored by a brief accompanying reflection asking what they might mean for our thinking about the theatre. These many possible worlds circle around questions that include: In what way is writing itself a performance? How do we understand the relationship between real performances that engender imaginary reflections and imaginary conceptions that form the basis for real theatrical productions? Are we not always imagining theatres when we read or even when we sit in the theatre watching whatever event we imagine we are seeing? The Oxford Companion to Theatre and Performance Dennis Kennedy, 2010-08-26 An authoritative reference covering primarily actors, playwrights, directors, styles, and movements, companies, and organizations.

Loose Screws Dominika Laster, 2015 This anthology of contemporary Polish drama brings together nine previously untranslated plays by prominent playwrights who have emerged in rapidly changing post-communist landscapes. The plays expose ways in which individual and social violence impinge upon one another, disrupt notions of a monolithic Polish identity, and try to find meaning within the post-9/11 global context. The Files by the radical theatre group Teatr smego Dnia looks back at 1970s communist Poland through the prism of personal letters, memoirs, and newly declassified police files. Michał Bajer's Eat the Heart of Your Set in the Paris apartment of Frédéric Chopin in October 1849 delves into issues of cultural and artistic patrimony in the context of exile. Ingmar Villquist's Helver's Night tells the story of a mentally challenged man's complex relationship with his caregiver Karla amid a fascist takeover of the country. Amanita Muskaria's Daily Soup while firmly grounded in the specificity of a Polish working-class family, sheds light on the effects of globalization. The interplay of desire and the social forms is explored in Michał Walczak's First Time. Krzysztof Bizio's Let's Talk About Life and Death is a montage of phone conversations and short interactions between wife, husband, and son who struggle with their sense of alienation as they confront criminal and social violence, the bloody side of life on which death encroaches. Made in Poland is Przemysław Wojcieszek's punk manifesto which investigates the relation between the totalitarian atmosphere of the Socialist Realism and the individualism it produces. Dorota Masłowska's Couple of Poor Polish Speaking Romanians is a fast-paced spree through the Polish countryside. Malgorzata Sikorska-Miszczuk's Loose Screws examines the ways in which various psychopathologies play themselves out in the private and public spheres in post-communist Poland. The anthology includes a substantive introduction analyzing and situating the plays within their historical, political, and theatrical contexts.
