Indigenous knowledge systems and climate change management in Africa Ajayi, O.C. (ed), Mafongoya, P.L. (ed), 2017-11-15 Climate change presents a profound challenge to food security and sustainable development in Africa. Its negative impacts are likely to be greatest in the African region which is already food insecure. In the face of global climate change and its emerging challenges and unknowns, it is essential that decision makers base policies on the best available knowledge. In recent years, the knowledge of local and indigenous people, often referred to as indigenous knowledge (IK), has been increasingly recognised as an important source of climate knowledge and adaptation strategies.

Handbook of Research on Protecting and Managing Global Indigenous Knowledge Systems Tshifhumulo, Rendani, Makhanikhe, Tshimangadzo Justice, 2021-10-08 Indigenous knowledge systems (IKS) are a combination of knowledge systems encompassing technology, social, economic and philosophical learning or educational, legal and governance systems. The lack of documentation of these systems presents a problem as the knowledge is fading away over time. In response, it is essential that policies and strategies are undertaken to ensure that these systems are protected and sustained for generations to come. The Handbook of Research on Protecting and Managing Global Indigenous Knowledge Systems is a comprehensive reference source that works to preserve indigenous knowledge systems through research. Focusing on key concepts such as tools of indigenous knowledge management and African indigenous symbols, the book preserves and promotes indigenous knowledge through research and fills the void staff and students within the field of indigenous knowledge systems face with the current lack of research and resources. This book is ideal for university students, lecturers, researchers, academicians, policymakers, historians, sociologists and anyone interested in the field of indigenous knowledge systems.

65 Years of the FAO Library, 1952-2017 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-05-10 The Story of the FAO Library 65th Anniversary 1952-2017 is a journey through the events that led to what has become one of the world's finest collections of materials, both digital and print, on food, agriculture and international development. Today, the library is the depository of over one and a half million volumes, plus a collection of 400 rare books, 32 incunabula books printed before 1501 and thousands of digital publications. Its origins lie in the International Institute of Agriculture (IIA) founded in Rome in 1905 by King Vittorio Emanuele III to defend and modernize agriculture with the encouragement of David Lubin, an American citizen and passionate promoter of agricultural knowledge. Lubin committed to creating and developing the Institute's library, soon the reference point for research centres, governments and other agencies specialized in agricultural matters. In the aftermath of World War II, the legacy of the IIA and its unique library were closely safeguarded by FAO. FAO's library, which officially opened in 1952, was named after Lubin in recognition of the foresight, leadership and outstanding contribution to international co-operation in the field of agriculture. This publication unveils the library's precious collections, ranging from those inherited from the Marquis Raffaele Cappelli, second President of the IIA, to the atlases, periodicals, yearbooks and even an edition of Alexander von Humboldt's Cosmos from the Centre International de

Sylviculture collection The publication s text is accompanied by photographs and images taken from the archives showing rare pieces ranging from the incunabula to exquisite hand drawn illustrations And what about today Already as of the 1970s the library had embarked on digitalization providing access to technologies and supporting libraries in some 90 developing countries via FAO s decentralized offices As the book reveals the Library continues to rise to the digital challenge maintaining its pivotal role in knowledge dissemination
