Living with Risk in the Late Roman World explores the ever present experiences of risk that characterized the daily existence of individuals communities and societies in the late Roman world late third century CE through mid sixth century CE Recognizing the vital role of human agency author Cam Grey bases his argument on the concept of the riskscape the collection of risks that constitute everyday lived experience the human perception of those risks and the actions that exploit mitigate or exacerbate them In contrast to recent grand narratives of the fate of the late Roman Empire Living with Risk in the Late Roman World focuses on the quotidian practices of mitigation and management foreknowledge and prediction and mobilization and manipulation of risks at the individual and community levels Grey illustrates the ubiquity of these practices through a collection of anecdotes that emphasize the highly localized heterogeneous and complementary nature of riskscapes members of local communities enlisting figures of power to neutralize the hazards posed by imminent catastrophes be it a tsunami earthquake or volcanic eruption Christian holy figures both suffering and imposing bodily affliction as part of their claims to control such hazards and thereby to exercise influence in these communities intimate experiences of seasonality and weather that shaped local practices of subsistence but also of self representation and geographically specific and fiercely contested claims to special knowledge and control of water Multidisciplinary in its methodology and provocative in its argumentation Living with Risk in the Late Roman World demonstrates that human communities in the ancient past were inextricably intertwined with the world around them and that the actions they took simultaneously responded to and shaped the risks both hazardous and favorable that they perceived

Turner,2016-02-17 Were holy men historical figures or figments of the theological imagination Did the biographies devoted to them reflect facts or only the ideological commitments of their authors For decades scholars of late antiquity have wrestled with these questions when analysing such issues as the Christianization of Europe the decline of paganism and the rise of the holy man and of the hagiographical genre In this book Peter Turner suggests a new approach to these problems through an examination of a wide range of spiritual narrative texts from the third to the sixth centuries A D pagan philosophical biographies Greek and Latin Christian saints lives and autobiographical works by authors such as Julian and Augustine Rather than scrutinizing these works for either historical facts or religious and intellectual attitudes he argues that a deeper historicity can be found only in the interplay between these types of information On the textual level this analysis recognises the genuine commitment of spiritual authors to write truthfully and to record realistically a world felt to be replete with spiritual and symbolic meaning On the historical level it argues that holy men expecting the same symbolism within their own lives adopted lifestyles which ultimately provoked and confirmed this world view Such praxis is detectable not only in the holy men who inspired biography but also in the period s scattered autobiographical writings As much a historical as a textual phenomenon this spiritually minded scrutiny of the world created interpretations which were always open and contested Therefore this book also associates spiritual narrative texts with only one possible voice of religious experience in a constant dialogue between believers opponents and the sceptical undecided Catholic World ,1916 The Fall of the
