Christopher E. Bell, 2010-03-08 The popular definition characterizes celebrity as a product of manufacture rather than merit. If fame is taken to represent the recognition of achievement, then modern celebrity in contrast must be based on something other than achievement for celebrity and fame are not the same thing. This book explores the process by which celebrity is created using the first seven seasons of Fox Television's American Idol as a framework for analysis of how celebrity is defined, generated, nurtured, and intensified.

Fabricating the Absolute Fake - Revised Edition Jaap Kooijman, 2025-10-01 When rock star Bono told Oprah Winfrey that America is an ideal that is supposed to be contagious, the talk show host was moved to tears. Such an imagined America rather than the nation-state USA is the topic of Fabricating the Absolute Fake. Pop and politics become intertwined as Hollywood television and celebrities spread the American Dream around the world. Using concepts such as the absolute fake and karaoke Americanism, the book examines this global mediation as well as the way America is appropriated in pop culture produced outside of the USA, as demonstrated by such diverse cultural icons as the Elvis-inspired crooner Lee Towers and the Moroccan-Dutch rapper Ali B. This revised and extended edition includes a new chapter on Barack Obama and Michael Jackson as global celebrities and a new afterword on teaching American pop culture.

The Troubles of Journalism William A. Hachten, 2005 This book looks at criticisms of the journalism profession and evaluates many of the changes in journalism, both positive and negative. In addition, it suggests what the many changes mean for this nation and indeed for the world at large, as American journalism, its methods and standards, has markedly influenced the way many millions overseas receive news and view their world. Based on author William Hachten's 50-year involvement with newspapers and journalism education, The Troubles of Journalism serves as a realistic examination of the profession and is appropriate for upper-level students.

Interrogating the Image Del Jacobs, 2009-09-22 Interrogating the Image argues that movies examining the role film and television plays in the lives of their audience have created changes both in the movies themselves and in their viewers and considers fourteen films where the moving picture is central to the narratives. Three films discussed: The Purple Rose of Cairo, Pleasantville, and The Truman Show offer frame-breaking experiences for their characters that allow spectators to appreciate the ruptures between lived reality and media play, delivering therapeutic payoffs that can be restorative, reconstructive, or rejective. Other examples come from the worlds of cinema: The Majestic, Matinee, Cinema Paradiso, television: Bamboozled, Network, Natural Born Killers, Medium, Cool, and the sociopolitical realm where media dominates: Being There, Wag the Dog, Bob Roberts, Bulworth. Meanwhile, significant interpretive stances—reflective, reflexive, critical, and ironic—are engendered and embraced by filmmakers and audiences who create and consume these works. The result is a media-saturated culture in transformation and best understood using cinema's interrogative resources.

Attention Equals Life Andrew Epstein, 2016-06-10 Poetry has long been thought of as a genre devoted to grand subjects timeless themes and sublime beauty Why then have contemporary poets turned with such intensity to documenting and capturing the everyday and mundane Drawing on insights about the nature of everyday life from philosophy history and critical theory Andrew Epstein traces the modern history of this preoccupation and considers why it is so much with us today Attention Equals Life argues that a potent hunger for everyday life explodes in the post 1945 period as a reaction to the rapid unsettling transformations of this epoch which have resulted in a culture of perilous distraction Epstein demonstrates that poetry is an important and perhaps unlikely cultural form that has mounted a response and even a mode of resistance to a culture suffering from an acute crisis of attention In this timely and engaging study Epstein examines why a compulsion to represent the everyday becomes predominant in the decades after modernism and why it has so often sparked genre bending formal experimentation With chapters devoted to illuminating readings of a diverse group of writers including poets associated with influential movements like the New York School language poetry and conceptual writing the book considers the variety of forms contemporary poetry of everyday life has taken and analyzes how gender race and political forces all profoundly inflect the experience and the representation of the quotidian By exploring the rise of experimental realism as a poetic mode and the turn to rule governed everyday life projects Attention Equals Life offers a new way of understanding a vital strain at the heart of twentieth and twenty first century literature It not only charts the evolution of a significant concept in cultural theory and poetry but also reminds readers that the quest to pay attention to the everyday within today's frenetic world of and social media is an urgent and unending task
