Srutek,Elgene E. O. Box,2013-03-14 When two of us Jiri Kolbek Miroslav Sriltek were working in North Korea on the Czech Slovak field expeditions of the early 1990s we did not think initially of comparing our results with the vegetation of surrounding areas or of writing a book Our efforts mainly involved observing and documenting the vegetation as completely as possible and initial recognition of vegetation units At first we focused on the most obvious vegetation types but eventually also any important types that we could discern Later we focused more on forests since almost all of northeastern Asia has forest potential and forests still do form the landscape matrix in most areas First we studied suburban woods and forests most of which are strongly affected by human activities Later though we also had chances to visit and study lovely mountain regions including Myohyang san Kumgang san Su jang san and the high especially beautiful Changbai shan on the border between North Korea and China The Changbai shan is the highest mountain system in the Korean Peninsula including the highest peak Paektu san We gradually changed our goal from an evaluation of forest data from North Korea to comparison with available field data and literature sources from comparable surrounding areas These include South Korea the Russian Far East northeastern China Manchuria and northern Japan including the Kuril Islands Finally we decided to prepare a preliminary survey of the forest vegetation of the Russian Far East and eventually of all of northeastern Asia which would be published in English Radical Botany Natania Meeker,Antonia Szabari,2019-12-03 Succeeds beautifully in discovering and entwining an entire tradition of speculative botany that will reshape plant studies and posthumanist theory Stacy Alaimo author of Exposed Environmental Politics and Pleasures in Posthuman Times Science Fiction Technoculture Studies Book Prize Winner Radical Botany excavates a tradition in which plants participate in the effort to imagine new worlds and envision new futures Modernity the book claims is defined by the idea of all life as vegetal Meeker and Szabari argue that the recognition of plants liveliness and animation as a result of scientific discoveries from the seventeenth century to today has mobilized speculative creation in fiction cinema and art Plants complement and challenge notions of human life Radical Botany traces the implications of the speculative mobilization of plants for feminism queer studies and posthumanist thought If as Michael Foucault has argued the notion of the human was born at a particular historical moment and is now nearing its end Radical Botany reveals that this origin and endpoint are deeply informed by vegetality as a form of pre and posthuman subjectivity The trajectory of speculative fiction which this book traces offers insights into the human relationship to animate matter and the technological mediations through which we enter into contact with the material world Plants profoundly shape human experience from early modern absolutist societies to late capitalism s manipulations of life and the onset of climate change and attendant mass extinction A major intervention
