Wolcott, 2012-08-16 Throughout the twentieth century African Americans challenged segregation at amusement parks swimming pools and skating rinks not only in pursuit of pleasure but as part of a wider struggle for racial equality Well before the Montgomery bus boycott mothers led their children into segregated amusement parks teenagers congregated at forbidden swimming pools and church groups picnicked at white only parks But too often white mobs attacked those who dared to transgress racial norms In Race Riots and Roller Coasters Victoria W. Wolcott tells the story of this battle for access to leisure space in cities all over the United States Contradicting the nostalgic image of urban leisure venues as democratic spaces Wolcott reveals that racial segregation was crucial to their appeal Parks pools and playgrounds offered city dwellers room to exercise relax and escape urban cares These gathering spots also gave young people the opportunity to mingle flirt and dance As cities grew more diverse these social forms of fun prompted white insistence on racially exclusive recreation Wolcott shows how black activists and ordinary people fought such infringements on their right to access public leisure In the face of violence and intimidation they swam at white only beaches boycotted discriminatory roller rinks and picketed Jim Crow amusement parks When African Americans demanded inclusive public recreational facilities white consumers abandoned those places Many parks closed or privatized within a decade of desegregation Wolcott's book tracks the decline of the urban amusement park and the simultaneous rise of the suburban theme park reframing these shifts within the civil rights context Filled with detailed accounts and powerful insights Race Riots and Roller Coasters brings to light overlooked aspects of conflicts over public accommodations This eloquent history demonstrates the significance of leisure in American race relations My Roller Coaster Ride to Freedom Sadie Johnson, 2014-03 When the two Orange County police officers
