Growth Centres In Spatial Planning Pergamon Urban And Regional Planning:

Growth Centres in Spatial Planning Malcolm J. Moseley, 2013-10-22 Growth Centres in Spatial Planning examines the role of growth centers in spatial planning in terms of achieving the intended objectives. Intended objectives include improving a region's potential for adopting innovations, a saving in public investment on infrastructure, a more efficient pattern of service provision, a dissemination of growth impulses throughout the problem region, and the interception of would-be migrants from the region. More specifically, this book analyzes the extent to which growth center policies are likely to attain these objectives and how such policies might be modified accordingly. This text consists of eight chapters and begins with an appraisal of growth center theory and growth center policy along with the fundamental issues that are involved in putting such policies into practice. This is followed by a discussion on regional policies with a clear growth center element in Scotland, Ireland, and France. The reader is then introduced to the link between urban centers and the diffusion of innovations, the degree to which the spatial concentration of investment is desirable in order to achieve the most economic pattern of service provision, and the role of spatial agglomeration in stimulating economic growth. The spatial impact of growth centers and the role of growth centers in generating, intercepting, and attracting migrants are also considered. This text concludes with a chapter that proposes some policy guidelines and directions for research. This book will be of interest to planners and policymakers involved in urban planning and regional development more generally.

Spatial inequalities and regional development

H. Folmer, Jan Janssen, 2013-03-09 In September 1977 a Regional Science Symposium was held at the Faculty of Economics of the University of Groningen in the Netherlands. Organized because of the recent establishment at the Faculty of Economics of a group that is engaged in teaching and research in the field of regional science, the aim of the symposium was to make university members more familiar with regional science and to introduce the newly created group to the national and international scene. Two separate topics were selected of potential interest to both researchers and policy makers. The first, spatial inequalities and regional development, was chosen because of its central place in regional science. Authors from several disciplines were asked to approach this theme from a general policy orientated point of view. This ensured the enlightenment of the various dimensions of spatial inequality and its implications for regional policy. The results have been collected in the volume Spatial Inequalities and Regional Development. The second theme focused on spatial statistical analysis. This branch of statistics is a relatively new one which receives growing attention among researchers in the field of applied regional science. The meeting on this topic concentrated on new results of research on the use of appropriate statistical and econometric methods for analyzing spatial data. The papers concerned have been collected into another volume, Exploratory and Explanatory Statistical Analysis of Spatial Data.

Development Planning Richard Rhoda, 2019-03-20 Dr Rhoda concisely presents the wide range of analytical methods available to urban and regional development planners. Focusing on the needs of the practitioner in each chapter, he concentrates on a particular analytical issue describing several types of relevant analyses and offering guidelines for selecting appropriate techniques to solve speci

Urbanisation and Planning in the Third World Robert Potter, 2012-08-06 First published in 1985 this book reconsiders the whole question of urbanisation and planning in the Third World It argues that public involvement which is now an accepted part of Western planning should be used more in Third World cities It shows that many inhabitants of Third World cities are migrants from rural areas and have very definite ideas about what the function of the city should be and what it ought to offer and it goes on to argue that therefore a planning process which involves more public participation would better serve local needs and would do much more to solve problems than the contemporary approach

The Ancestry of Regional Spatial Planning Louis C. Wassenhoven, 2018-09-20 This book is not a historical or archaeological treatise but rather a study in which the author looks at the past not as a historian but as a planner who has the ambition to unravel the early manifestations of his discipline a discipline which did not exist as such in remote periods but the ingredients of which were nevertheless present The author has observed the past equipped with knowledge and understanding of what regional planning was in the second half of the twentieth century and still is He stands in the period of the first decades after the Second World War which were the formative years of regional planning and looks back at bygone ages He discusses ideas and literature from the immediate post war period in order to examine the ancestry of regional planning through their lens The book will attract a broad range of readers because of its approach and its wide coverage of historical periods and world regions Although Europe is the main focus the book contains material on all continents and all periods the ancient world the medieval age and the modern era The history of Urban Planning is taught and researched widely but the history or pre history before the twentieth century of Regional Spatial Planning is not This book will fill that vacuum
