

Some Survive

While governments within the United Nations hierarchy were still demagoguizing, and international aid agencies squandering billions of dollars on military hardware, there were no people starving, and there were no people dying from the lack of supplies. It was only because there were about a billion people who believed in God's love that there had not been a famine in 1945. Believing in God's love is a very strong human emotion, and it is the only emotion that can be used to make people truly obedient to the will of God. It is the only emotion that can be used to make people truly obedient to the will of God. It is the only emotion that can be used to make people truly obedient to the will of God.
