Farming with the Wild Dan Imhoff, Roberto Carra, 2003. Featuring profiles from more than 20 states and illustrated with over 200 color photographs, Farming with the Wild offers a compelling view of a future in which farming and ranching operations are integrated into regional networks of protected wildlands. Dan Imhoff records his travels to the far reaches of the United States in search of farmers, ranchers, government agencies, and nonprofit organizations who are striving to develop and renew successful agricultural practices that are compatible with wild Nature. Combining elements of narrative, travelogue, photo essay, and resource guide, Imhoff provides valuable information and inspiration for conservationists, farmers, ranchers, gardeners, students, landowners, and anyone interested in a truly sustainable future for agriculture and biodiversity. Farming with the Wild demonstrates persuasively that such a future is possible. Life in a Small Pond Gene Henson, 2015-12-05. It was a world before home computers, electronic games, and the internet. If a family owned a telephone, it was black, and a large radio was the evening entertainment. During warm and sunny days, mothers would ask their bored children to go outside and play. These are the stories of a year in one family's life. Their oldest son, nine-year-old Gene, spends his summer vacation exploring the woods and streams with his dog Mugs. Mysteries left behind by the gold miners of the 1840s were hidden there, forgotten, and waiting to be discovered. Other than rattlesnakes, bears, leeches, ticks, wasps, poison oak, mine shafts, and polio-infested ponds, the woods were a pretty safe place to play. His adventures and other life experiences will awaken a young man.
