

THE GRADUATE LEAVING COLLEGE

BY GEORGE MOSES HORTON

What summons do I hear?
The morning peal, departure's knell;
My eyes let fall a friendly tear,
And bid this place farewell.
Attending servants come,
The carriage wheels like thunders roar,
To bear the pensive seniors home,
Here to be seen no more.
Pass one more transient night,
The morning sweeps the college clean;
The graduate takes his last long flight,
No more in college seen.
The bee, which courts the flower,
Must with some pain itself employ,
And then fly, at the day's last hour,
Home to its hive with joy.

The Virgin of Bennington Kathleen Norris, 2002-04-02 Shy and sheltered as a young woman Kathleen Norris wasn't prepared for the sex drugs and bohemianism of Bennington College in the late 1960s and when she moved to New York City after graduation it was a case of out of the frying pan and into the fire In this chronicle Norris remembers the education she received both formal and fortuitous the influence of her mentor Betty Kray who shunned the spotlight while serving as a guiding force in the poetry world of the late 20th century her encounters with such figures as James Merrill Jim Carroll Denise Levertov Stanley Kunitz Patti Smith and Erica Jong and her eventual decision to leave Manhattan for the less crowded landscape she described so memorably in Dakota This account of the making of a young writer will resonate with anyone who has stumbled bravely into a bigger world and found the poetry that lurks on rooftops and in railroad apartments and with anyone who has enjoyed the blessings of inspiring teachers and great friends

Eminent Outlaws Christopher Bram, 2025-05-01 This standard text of the defining era of gay literati tells the cultural history of the interconnected lives of the 20th century's most influential gay writers Philadelphia Inquirer In the years following World War II a group of gay writers established themselves as major cultural figures in American life Truman Capote the enfant terrible whose finely wrought fiction and nonfiction captured the nation's imagination Gore Vidal the wry withering chronicler of politics sex and history Tennessee Williams whose powerful plays rocketed him to the top of the American theater James Baldwin the harrowingly perceptive novelist and social critic Christopher Isherwood the English novelist who became a thoroughly American novelist And the exuberant Allen Ginsberg whose poetry defied censorship and exploded minds Together their writing introduced America to gay experience and sensibility and changed our literary culture But the change was only beginning A new generation of gay writers followed taking more risks and writing about their sexuality more openly Edward Albee brought his prickly iconoclasm to the American theater Edmund White laid bare his own life in stylized autobiographical works Armistead Maupin wove a rich tapestry of the counterculture queer and straight Mart Crowley brought gay men's lives out of the closet and onto the stage And Tony Kushner took them beyond the stage to the center of American ideas With authority and humor Christopher Bram weaves these men's ambitions affairs feuds loves and appetites into a single sweeping narrative Chronicling over fifty years of momentous change from civil rights to Stonewall to AIDS and beyond Eminent Outlaws is an inspiring illuminating tale one that reveals how the lives of these men are crucial to understanding the social and cultural history of the American twentieth century Growing Up Mostly Normal in the Middle of Nowhere John Sheirer, 2005 This memoir stands out as a beautifully written account of a mostly happy mostly normal fully real life at once both ordinary and extraordinary Sheirer explores intensely personal experiences and relationships with humor surprise awe suspense and deep insight With the depth of a memoir and the flow of a novel Sheirer chronicles how his simple youth of farm sports school nature and family led him to an unlikely adulthood as an author and college professor

Housing the Environmental Imagination Peter Quigley, 2011-10-18 The last few decades have seen an explosion of interest in literature and the sense of place Many essays books and presentations have explored the aesthetics politics and urgency of understanding and appreciating the unique qualities of coasts mountains deserts bioregions and more Little attention however has been given to the process of establishing residence in these special places and what it means to make a life there Housing the Environmental Imagination focuses directly on this omission by examining the writing houses and lives of Thoreau Robinson Jeffers Gary Snyder Wendell Berry Scott Russell Sanders Arne Naess Mary Austin Jack London and many others In addition to addressing the lack of study on this theme of living in place Quigley adds a crucial additional element living and writing in place The unique aspect of this study is the selection of those writers whose writing project is inseparable from the living project In other words without the cabin at the pond there would be no Walden The same can be said of Snyder's Kitkitdizze and Jeffers' Tor House and Hawk Tower Therefore it's Quigley's intention to throw open the issue of the meaning of houses and to explore the role houses play in the lives of some of the more well known nature writers Thoreau is cited by Quigley as a good point of departure for examining the meaning and role of houses Most men appear never to have considered what a house is In this way Quigley claims to have identified a new genre of writing and in the process pushes back against postmodern approaches This writing connected inseparably to house and region depends on and is anchored in experience and to a world of natural processes and values An interesting aspect of the book is the way Quigley takes this basic formula place house writing and examines how lifestyle and ritual are associated with place house and writing In addition this triad also is seen to work its way forward in different historical times and pressures Quigley examines the different political social and architectural pressures felt by these writers in the 19th and early and late 20th centuries The conclusion of this study points forward however as the title of the last chapter suggests Alternative Futures Quigley takes as his guiding theme throughout two polar thoughts from Thoreau that govern the writers under examination as well as

Quigley's approach Thoreau championed the heroic virtue of the imagination in practical terms by urging folks to move confidently in the direction of one's dreams By doing so if one endeavors to live the life he has imagined he will meet with a success unexpected in common hours Again the practical and the imaginative are brought together with Thoreau's other claim that it is vain to sit down to write when you have not stood up to live Nature war individualism love family stone wood glass ocean mountains farming community and more come together in this broad ranging discussion This is a book about writers in place but it also is about rethinking how we might live the best lives we can every day Essentially this book addresses the long standing question And how shall we live <http://housesinthepoeticwild.org> International Who's Who of Authors and Writers 2004 Europa Publications, 2003 Accurate and reliable biographical information essential to anyone interested in the world of literature The International Who's Who of Authors and Writers offers invaluable information on the personalities and organizations of the literary world including many up and coming writers as well as established names With over 8 000 entries this updated edition features Concise biographical information on novelists authors playwrights columnists journalists editors and critics Biographical details of established writers as well as those who have recently risen to prominence Entries detailing career works published literary awards and prizes membership and contact addresses where available An extensive listing of major international literary awards and prizes and winners of those prizes A directory of major literary organizations and literary agents A listing of members of the American Academy of Arts and Letters
