Lifelong Learning In Paid And Unpaid Work Survey And Case Study Findings:

Lifelong Learning in Paid and Unpaid Work D.W. Livingstone, 2015-04-08 Lifelong Learning is essential to all individuals and in recent years has become a guiding principle for policy initiatives ranging from national economic competition to issues of social cohesion and personal fulfilment. However, despite the importance of lifelong learning, there is a critical absence of direct international evidence on its extent, content and outcomes. Lifelong Learning in Paid and Unpaid Work provides a new paradigm for understanding work and learning, documenting the active contribution of workers to their development and their adaptation to paid and unpaid work. Empirical evidence drawn from national surveys in Canada and eight related case studies is used to explore the current learning activities of those in paid employment, housework and volunteer work, addressing all forms of learning including formal schooling, further education, courses, informal training and self-directed learning, particularly in the context of organisational and technological change. Proposing an expanded conceptual framework for investigating the relationships between learning and work, the contributors offer new insights into the ways in which adult learning adapts to and helps reshape the wide contemporary world of work throughout the life course. Second International Handbook of Lifelong Learning David N. Aspin, Judith Chapman, Karen Evans, Richard Bagnall, 2012-01-18 The second edition of the International Handbook of Lifelong Learning is extensive, innovative and international in scope, remit and vision, inviting its readers to engage in a critical re-appraisal of the theme of lifelong learning. It is a thoroughgoing, rigorous and scholarly work with profound and wide-ranging implications for the future of educating institutions and agencies of all kinds in the conception, planning and delivery of lifelong learning initiatives. Lifelong learning requires a wholly new philosophy of learning, education and training, one that aims to facilitate a coherent set of links and pathways between work, school and education and recognises the necessity for government to give incentives to industry and their employees so they can truly invest in lifelong learning. It is also a concept that is premised on the understanding of a learning society in which everyone, independent of race, creed or gender, is entitled to quality learning that is truly excellent. This book recognises the need for profound changes in education and for goals that are critically important to education, economic advancement and social involvement. To those concerned about the future of our society, our economy and educational provision, this book provides a richly illuminating basis for powerful debate. Drawing extensively on policy analyses, conceptual thinking and examples of informed and world-standard practice in lifelong learning endeavours in the field, both editors and authors seek to focus readers' attention on the many issues and decisions that must be addressed if lifelong learning is to become a reality for us all. Professional Power and Skill Use in the 'Knowledge Economy' D.W. Livingstone, Tracey L. Adams, Peter Sawchuk, 2021-05-25 This is the first systematic analysis of the class structure of professionals. Their growing numbers, including mainly non-managerial professional employees as well as self-employed professionals, professional employers and professional managers, have been conflated in most prior studies. In this book evidence comes from a unique series of large scale surveys since the 1980s as well as recent comparative case studies of engineers and nurses A primary focus is on issues of job control and skill utilization among these knowledge workers widely regarded as pivotal to the sustainability of knowledge economies Professional employees in particular are found to face declining job control diminishing use of their skills and increasing barriers to continuing learning There are many original benchmarks here to serve as guides for further studies on professional classes job design and training strategies in advanced capitalist economies

Local Volunteering, Adult Learning and Social Change in the Philippines Chris Millora,2025-07-10 Based on long term ethnographic fieldwork this book explores the learning and literacy dimensions of local volunteering for social change in the Philippines It tells the story of youth and adult volunteers who experience vulnerabilities yet play central roles in local development efforts in housing and sexual health Why do people who themselves experience vulnerability volunteer to help others And what are their learning experiences in the process In its unique application of a literacy lens to the study of volunteering the book unravels how marginalised groups often seen as thankful receivers re use texts words and labels to re define their roles in shaping social change and for whose benefit Chris Millora provides an in depth look into the volunteers everyday activities such as delivering community health classes filling out donor forms and applying for government approvals In doing so this book reveals how volunteers voices and agency were constrained to fit a certain bureaucratic way of working It offers powerful case studies on how global development agendas such as value for money upskilling and professionalisation through bureaucratic literacies impact the experiences of volunteers at the grassroots level Arguing that literacy and volunteering could enhance inequalities within groups this book calls for a renewed focus on the role that power and identities play both in adult youth literacy and volunteering research

Cases on Leadership in Adult Education Modise, Oitshepile MmaB,2015-07-17 Strong leadership is the cornerstone of advancement Nowhere is this more important than the field of education where students undergo training to effectively overcome obstacles and challenges whether in the classroom or in the workforce Cases on Leadership in Adult Education highlights real world examples of students inspired and invigorated to higher levels of achievement in both their professional and academic lives as well as instances of leadership gone wrong and examples of what not to do when put in charge of an organization Featuring case studies covering a wide range of disciplines this book is a valuable resource for instructors of adult education in universities and community colleges practitioners in the education field adult students of various backgrounds and managers or leaders seeking improvement within their respective organizations This authoritative reference source features chapters on a broad scope of education and training issues including but not limited to agricultural training leadership styles lifelong learning management issues poverty reduction rehabilitation programs trends in teaching culture and vocational training Tipping Point for Advanced Capitalism D.W. Livingstone, 2023-09-07T00:00:00Z Tipping Point for Advanced Capitalism is a pathbreaking study of the changing class makeup of the Canadian other G7 and Nordic labour forces since the 1980s documenting especially the rise of non managerial professional employees The book provides unprecedented tracking of the links between employment classes and higher levels of class consciousness including the often hidden political consciousness of corporate capitalists as well as the extent of oppositional and revolutionary consciousness among non managerial workers The large differences exposed between class conscious capitalists and these non managerial workers on issues of poverty reduction and global warming reveal the strategic roles these key class agents play in actions to defend or transform advanced capitalism The most concerted evidence based study to bring class back into grasping the intimately linked ecological economic and political crises we now face Teacher Learning and Power in the Knowledge Society

Rosemary Clark, D.W. Livingstone, Harry Smaller, 2012-09-18 The rise of knowledge workers has been widely heralded but there has been little research on their actual learning practices This book provides the first systematic comparative study of the formal and informal learning of different professional groups with a particular focus on teachers Drawing on unique large scale national surveys of working conditions and learning practices in Canada teachers are compared with doctors and lawyers nurses engineers and computer programmers as well as other professionals The class positions of professionals self employed employers managers or employees and their different collective bargaining and organizational decision making powers are found to have significant effects on their formal learning and professional development PD Teachers learning varies according to their professionally based negotiating and school based decision making powers Two further national surveys of thousands of Canadian classroom teachers as well as more in depth case studies offer more insight into the array of teachers formal and informal learning activities Analyses of regular full time teachers occasional teachers and new teachers probe their different learning patterns The international literature on teacher professional development and related government policies is reviewed and major barriers to job embedded ongoing professional learning are identified Promising alternative forms of integrating teachers work and their professional learning are illustrated Teacher empowerment appears to be an effective means to ensure more integrated professional learning as well as to aid fuller realization of knowledge
