and necessitates actions designed to mend its social structure From the ritual of burying a body at sea to the creation of memorials to honor the missing these events tell us a great deal about how sailors see their world Based on a study of more than 2 100 gravestones and monuments in North America and the United Kingdom erected between the seventeenth and late twentieth centuries David Stewart expands the use of nautical archaeology into terrestrial environments He focuses on those who make their living at sea one of the world s oldest and most dangerous occupations to examine their distinct folkloric traditions beliefs and customs regarding death loss and remembrance

The Politics of Haunting and Memory in International Relations Jessica Auchter, 2014-03-21 International Relations has traditionally focused on conflict and war but the effects of violence including dead bodies and memorialization practices have largely been considered beyond the purview of the field Drawing on Jacques Derrida s notion of hauntology to consider the politics of life and death Auchter traces the story of how life and death and a clear division between the two is summoned in the project of statecraft She argues that by letting ourselves be haunted or looking for ghosts it is possible to trace how statecraft relies on the construction of such a dichotomy Three empirical cases offer fertile ground for complicating the picture often painted of memorialization Rwandan genocide memorials the underexplored case of undocumented immigrants who die crossing the US Mexico border and the body ruins nexus in 9 11 memorialization Focusing on the role of dead bodies and the construction of particular spaces as the appropriate sites for memory to be situated it offers an alternative take on the new materialisms movement in international relations by asking after the questions that arise from an ethnographic approach to the subject viewing things from the perspective of dead bodies who occupy the shadowy world of post conflict international politics This work will be of great interest to students and scholars of
