Love Changes Urban Renaissance:

The Roots of Urban Renaissance Brian D. Goldstein, 2023-03-14 An acclaimed history of Harlem's journey from urban crisis to urban renaissance With its gleaming shopping centers and refurbished row houses today's Harlem bears little resemblance to the neighborhood of the midcentury urban crisis Brian Goldstein traces Harlem's Second Renaissance to a surprising source the radical social movements of the 1960s that resisted city officials and fought to give Harlemites control of their own destiny Young Harlem activists inspired by the civil rights movement envisioned a Harlem built by and for its low income predominantly African American population In the succeeding decades however the community based organizations they founded came to pursue a very different goal a neighborhood with national retailers and increasingly affluent residents The Roots of Urban Renaissance demonstrates that gentrification was not imposed on an unwitting community by unscrupulous developers or opportunistic outsiders Rather it grew from the neighborhood's grassroots producing a legacy that benefited some longtime residents and threatened others

Providence, the Renaissance City Francis J. Leazes, Mark T. Motte, 2004 The authoritative account of one city's dramatic rebirth

Urban Design and the British Urban Renaissance John Punter, 2009-10 An insightful exploration of the strengths weaknesses and implications of New Labour's urban renaissance agenda experts in urban design and planning critically review the development and application of the strategy in Britain's largest cities

Urban Renaissance: Glasgow Lessons for Innovation and Implementation OECD, 2002-12-09 This book provides a policy tool kit for Glasgow with the aim of improving the distressed urban areas that are holding the city back

Urban Change and the European Left Donald McNeill, 2005-08-02 This book helps make sense of the shape of contemporary urban change and describes the way in which cities are central to the construction of place based political identities

Urban Regeneration in the UK Andrew Tallon, 2013-06-07 Striking transformations are taking place in the urban landscape The regeneration of urban areas in the UK and around the world has become an increasingly important issue amongst governments and populations since the global economic downturn This textbook provides an accessible and critical synthesis of urban regeneration in the UK analyzing key policies approaches issues and debates It places the historical and contemporary regeneration agenda in context The second edition has been extensively revised and updated to incorporate advances in literature policy and case study examples as well as giving greater discussion to the New Labour period of urban policy and the urban agenda and regeneration policies of the Conservative Liberal Democrat Coalition government elected in 2010 The book is divided into five sections with Section I establishing the conceptual and political framework for urban regeneration in the UK Section II traces policies that have been adopted by central government to influence the social economic and physical development of cities including early town and country and housing initiatives community focused urban policies of the late 1960s entrepreneurial property led regeneration of the 1980s competition for urban funds in the 1990s urban renaissance and neighborhood renewal policies of the late 1990s and early 2000s and new approaches since 2010 which have sought to stimulate enterprise and embrace localism in an age of austerity resulting from the global economic downturn Section III illustrates the key thematic policies and strategies that have been pursued by cities themselves focusing particularly on improving economic competitiveness tackling social disadvantage and promoting sustainable urban regeneration Section IV summarizes key issues and debates facing urban regeneration in the early 2010s and speculates upon future directions in an era of economic and political uncertainty Urban Regeneration in the UK combines the approaches taken by central government and cities themselves to regenerate urban areas providing a comprehensive and up to date synthesis of the field Each chapter also contains case studies study questions suggested further reading and websites making this an essential resource for undergraduate students interested in Urban Studies Geography Planning and the Built Environment

Eliminating the Achievement Gap William Jeynes, 2019-10-04 The purpose of the Eliminating the Achievement Gap is to provide a resource for scholars and students into many of the most salient issues trends and factors that are most effective in reducing the achievement gap Eliminating the Achievement Gap is particularly unique because it will 1 utilize a meta analysis to determine what factors contribute the most to reducing the achievement gap and 2 examine potential achievement gap reducing variables from across disciplines These disciplines include education sociology economics family science psychology public policy and educational psychology The second emphasis is largely based on the meta analysis because the results of the meta analysis indicate that the best way to completely eliminate the achievement gap is to initiate a multidisciplinary approach to the achievement gap It is the intention of this book to make scholars educators policymakers parents and the general public more aware of the factors that best bridge the achievement gap so that they can take major steps to implementing comprehensive and multidisciplinary efforts The more such efforts are inaugurated the more the achievement gap will be reduced The nine chapters of this book are therefore divided into four parts to reflect this extent of this comprehensive approach federations their members governments and the citizens they represent The contributors explore the contrasts and synergies between core social capital theoretical perspectives and how these may be informed by and or shape the realities of governance from different perspectives within the sport system Emergent Architectural Territories in East Asian Cities Peter G. Rowe, 2012-12-12 This book presents current developments in city planning and architecture in East Asia It describes the many neighborhoods in which the region's large cities are modernizing or expanding with innovative structures and advanced construction projects It combines a typology of public structures with an analysis of the compositional principles of urban environments Thus it finally connects new developments in city planning with new developments in architecture and considers examples such as CCTV Lujiazui Kansai Airport Xinyi Taipei 101 Chek Lap Kok Cheonggyecheon Roppongi Hills Da Shanzi Shahe Omotesando and Marina Bay from a new perspective And the new perspectives presented here are not just theoretical some forty full page bird's eye views prepared especially for this volume show these future urban settings in highly detailed images of breathtaking beauty The result is a rich portrait of the coming together of global and local influences in non Western countries With its systematic approach this presentation by one of the leading international experts in the field is a reference work on a topic of central importance to the world of construction today

Remaking London Ben Campkin, 2013-08-13 Between the slum clearances of the early twentieth century and debates about the post Olympic city the drive to regenerate London has intensified Yet today with a focus on increasing land values regeneration schemes purporting to foster diverse and creative new neighbourhoods typically displace precisely the qualities activities and communities they claim to support In Remaking London Ben Campkin provides a lucid and stimulating historical account of urban regeneration exploring how decline and renewal have been imagined and realised at different scales Focussing on present day regeneration areas that have been key to the capital's modern identity Campkin explores how these places have been stigmatised through identification with material degradation and spatial and social disorder Drawing on diverse sources including journalism photography cinema theatre architectural design advertising and television he illuminates how ideas of decline drive urban change Richly illustrated and engagingly written Remaking London is both a compelling account of contested sites from the capital's recent history and a powerful critique of the contradictions of contemporary regeneration

Social Policies and Social Control Malcolm Harrison, Teela Sanders, 2014-05-28 Drawing on a wide array of policy domains and events this book provides an innovative account of social control and behaviourism within welfare systems and social policies and the implications for disadvantaged groups This accessible collection reviews the controls assumptions and persuasions applied to individuals and households and explores broader themes including how new behaviourism was consolidated during the New Labour and Cameron periods Social policy and social control offers timely engagements with key issues for researchers and policy makers and is relevant for students in social policy sociology socio legal studies social work and social care disability studies human geography politics and public policy and gender family and life course studies Making Culture, Changing Society Tony Bennett, 2013-09-02 Making Culture Changing Society proposes a challenging new account of the relations between culture and society focused on how particular forms of cultural knowledge and expertise work on order and transform society Examining these forms of culture's action on the social as aspects of a historically distinctive ensemble of cultural institutions it considers the diverse ways in which culture has been produced and mobilised as a resource for governing populations These concerns are illustrated in detailed case studies of how anthropological conceptions of the relations between race and culture have shaped and been shaped by the relationships between museums fieldwork and governmental programmes in early twentieth century France and Australia These are complemented by a closely argued account of the relations between aesthetics and governance that in contrast to conventional approaches interprets the historical emergence of the autonomy of the aesthetic as vastly expanding the range of art's social uses In pursuing these concerns particular attention is given to the role that the cultural disciplines have played in making up and distributing the freedoms through which modern forms of liberal government operate An examination of the place that has been accorded habit as a route into the regulation of conduct within liberal social cultural and political thought brings these questions into sharp focus The book will be of interest to students and scholars of sociology cultural studies media studies anthropology museum and heritage studies history art history and cultural policy studies
