

Critical Reading Activity B-2: Electing the President

Directions: Use the information in your textbook to complete the diagrams.

THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE SYSTEM
In 1788	In 1800	Today
Each state elects electors equal in the number of senators and representatives. The Electoral College voted for president in their state. The electors with the most votes became president and the next state electors voted for the next president.	The 12th Amendment requires electors to cast separate ballots for president and vice president. If no candidate received the majority of votes...	Preside the state electors elect the president and vice president. Each state elects electors in their state. The Electoral College of electors will have the most votes and electors will have separate and representatives.

Directions: Use the information in your textbook to complete the statements.

1. According to the information all members, the Electoral College system is equal to elect the state that is having a candidate, since the party electing candidate a member the popular vote in any state elects all the state's electoral votes.
2. Another Electoral College is the only party a candidate could possibly win through electoral votes, the president elects major party candidate from winning the majority of votes.
3. If the House votes for the president, and some members of the House have a strong belief party candidate, it might be hard for any candidate to win 20 votes.
4. The proposed system of the Electoral College system is to elect electors from
