Invitation To A March Camilla Monologue:

American Theatre Gerald Bordman, 1996-11-21 This book concludes Gerald Bordman's acclaimed survey of American non-musical theatre. It deals with the years 1930 to 1969, a period when the number of yearly new plays was shrinking but a period during which American drama as a whole entered the world stage and became a dominant force. With works like Eugene O'Neill's Long Day's Journey into Night, Tennessee Williams's A Streetcar Named Desire, and Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman, American theater finally reached adulthood both dramatically and psychologically. Bordman's lively authoritative study covers every Broadway production as well as every major off-Broadway show. His discussion moves season by season and show by show in chronological order; he offers plot synopses and details the physical production, directors, players, theaters, and newspaper reviews. This book stands together with the preceding volumes of American Theatre as the premier history of American drama.

Invitation to a March Arthur Laurents, 1961 THE STORY George Oppenheimer's brief summation. It skirts about the fairy story of Sleeping Beauty but never settles for long in one mold. There is social comment on conformity and other failings of our modern civilization; there is satire. Musical America, 1944 The Audition:

Acting Series. Three editors, each associated with theatre, collaborated on this book of monologues for actresses. What they discovered, besides bravura pieces for auditions, acting classes, and study, was the pulse of the millennial theatrical scene. A follow-up to the popular previous edition from the 1990s, One on One: The Best Women's Monologues for the 21st Century includes the work of over 70 playwrights spotlighting the best of Broadway, Off-Broadway, regional, and experimental writings since 2000. A special introduction also explains how to choose, practice, and perform a speech for auditions. Comic or serious, or both, the monologues are written for young, old, and multicultural players by famous names and up-and-coming talent. Anna Deavere Smith records abuse in real relationships. House Arrest. August Wilson relates trials of those who survived coming to America and those who did not. Gem of the Ocean. And William Gibson recreates the dark fledgling days of Israel. Golda's Balcony.
