History Makers

Joseph Stalin (1879–1953)

Stalin rose from being a peasant family in Georgia during World War I to the most powerful man in the Soviet Union, leading the country through the war and the early years of the Cold War.

Stalin made several gains in the country's industrial development, but he became associated with the purges. Because of his independent attitude, he fell in and out of favor with the Soviet Union. In October 1953, he died of a heart attack. After the Soviet Union put down the uprising, they tried to reestablish ties.

In 1956, after Khrushchev had come to power, Stalin's government was attacked and criticized.

Alexander Dubcek (1912–1992)

Dubcek led the way for a Czechoslovakian party member, the first leader of the country, to become a reformer. He led the country in 1968, leading the way for change in the 1960s. Dubcek introduced reforms during the so-called Prague Spring of 1968. The Soviet Union reacted by sending troops into Prague to suppress a reform effort. The Soviet Union gained control from the party. He signed a new constitution in 1975, when the Communists agreed to turn power to a reform government. When Communists took over the country in 1989, Dubcek became head of the Social Democratic Party in Slovakia.
