Rabbit Creek Country Jon Thiem, Deborah Dimon, 2008-10-16 In 1997 Jon Thiem was hiking in Livermore country near Fort Collins Colorado Following one fork of Rabbit Creek he discovered an abandoned house and literally walked into the lives of John and Ida Elliott and Miss Josephine Lamb Always curious about earlier inhabitants of this land and conscious of the changes wrought by modern sprawl on its use and character Thiem pursued the story of these former ranchers for nearly a decade What Thiem and research associate Deborah Dimon discovered is that the three had an unconventional living arrangement that endured for over forty years a relationship that had as much to do with their love of the land as of each other John Elliott s father moved his growing family from Iowa to Kansas in the 1880s then to northern Colorado in 1890 when John was twelve He worked as a ranch hand and eventually became one of the biggest landowners in the area Ida Meyer ventured west from Nebraska in 1897 A serious amateur photographer she worked as a waitress and pie lady at the local hotel until she was in her early thirties She and John finally tied the knot in 1908 and in 1910 he bought a thousand acres on Middle Rabbit Creek Josephine Lamb grew up in the country west of Fort Collins Graduating from high school in 1916 she became a mountain teacher traveling to small remote schools Miss Lamb moved to the Elliott s ranch in 1919 to teach their only child Buck until he left for high school She lived at Rabbit Creek Ranch possibly as John Elliott s lover for many years after that acquiring her own land as time went by Tracing the flawed humanity of these three intertwined lives opens a window on life in the mountain West throughout the last century including ranching methods and women s changing roles as wives mothers and property owners

101 Different Ways to Build Homes and Pens for Your Animals Randy LaTour, 2011. Animals need their own space, and nowhere is this more apparent than for those who own multiple animals. When not given their own private space to be alone, many animals, especially dogs and livestock, will become overly territorial, marking space and fighting with other animals or even humans for a place to call their own. Yet many owners put off or overlook the need for building homes for their animals because they think it might be too hard or time consuming. That could not be further from the truth, however, and this book aims to prove just that. Written for every pet and livestock owner who has sighed or groaned at the prospect of building a home for their animals, this book shows you 101 different ways you can cut cost and time effectively build a viable home for your animals. You will learn in this book how to create homes from scratch for dozens of different kinds of animals. First and foremost, you will learn how to assess the needs of your animals according to breed and personality, from indoor domesticated pets to outdoor livestock. You will learn what features these homes need to match your animals according to size, feeding habits, gender, whether you have more than one, and whether they will be bred or not. You will learn which building materials are best for which breeds, homes, and how these materials can be purchased and used by yourself at home. Experts ranging from dog and cat breeders to small farmers have been interviewed for this book to learn more about their experiences with animal homes, and they have provided a number of insights into how these homes can and should be built. More than 101 different plans and methods for home building will be laid out for you in detailed methods that allow you to effectively start building these homes and seeing to the specific needs of every animal in your home or on your farm. Public and Local Acts of the Legislature of the State of Michigan Michigan, 1919.
