Inventions Of Teaching A Genealogy:

Inventions of Teaching Brent Davis, 2004-04-12 Inventions of Teaching A Genealogy is a powerful examination of current metaphors for and synonyms of teaching. It offers an account of the varied and conflicting influences and conceptual commitments that have contributed to contemporary vocabularies and that are in some ways maintained by those vocabularies in spite of inconsistencies and incompatibilities among popular terms. The concern that frames the book is how speakers of English invented in the original sense of the word came upon our current vocabularies for teaching. Conceptually this book is unique in the educational literature. As a whole it presents an overview of the major underlying philosophical and ideological concepts and traditions related to knowledge learning and teaching in the Western world concisely introducing readers to the central historical and contemporary discourses that shape current discussions and beliefs in the field. Because the organization of historical philosophical theoretical and etymological information is around key conceptual divergences in Western thought rather than any sort of chronology this text is not a linear history but several histories or more precisely it is a genealogy. Specifically it is developed around breaks in opinion that gave or are giving rise to diverse interpretations of knowledge learning and teaching highlighting historical moments in which vibrant new figurative understandings of teaching emerged and moments at which they froze into literalness. The book is composed of two sorts of chapters branching and teaching. Branching chapters include an opening treatment of the break in opinion separate discussions of each branch and a summary of the common assumptions and shared histories of the two branches. Teaching chapters offer brief etymological histories and some of the practical implications of the terms for teaching that were coined co-opted or redefined within the various traditions. Inventions of Teaching A Genealogy is an essential text for senior undergraduate and graduate courses in curriculum studies and foundations of teaching and is highly relevant as well for students faculty and researchers across the field of education.

Inventions of Teaching Brent Davis, Angus McMurtry, 2024-08 This updated edition of Inventions of Teaching A Genealogy presents an examination of the many and varied metaphors of teaching in English. These metaphors serve as sites to excavate conflicting historical conceptual and philosophical influences that have contributed to modern teaching practices. Though the Eurocentric perspectives of the first edition remain a focus they are placed in a broader context that acknowledges their as the authors coin it WEIRDness i.e. western educated industrialized rich democratic nature. In this revised and expanded edition these perspectives are accompanied by multiple case studies of non-Western and Indigenous educational traditions. Chapter discussions are organized as a genealogy around key conceptual bifurcations in thought rather than case by case analysis or a chronology. This structure allows the authors to examine the origins of distinctions that are often taken for granted such as cognitivism vs behaviorism or constructivism vs positivism. The genealogy develops around breaks in opinion that gave or are giving rise to diverse interpretations of knowledge learning and teaching highlighting historical moments in which vibrant new figurative understandings of teaching emerged. A new chapter has been added addressing the habits of interpretation needed to render the WEIRD world sensible alongside a much elaborated closing discussion intended to bring WEIRD inventions of teaching into sharper relief by contrasting them with non WEIRD cultures and some of their approaches to teaching Inventions of Teaching A Genealogy is an informative text for senior undergraduate and graduate courses in curriculum studies and foundations of teaching It is also relevant for students faculty and researchers across the field of education who want to explore the consequences of diversities of opinion belief and practice concerning teaching and closely related topics of learning knowing and formal education
