Javier Auyero, 2015 The Mexican American Experience in Texas Martha Menchaca, 2022-01-11 A historical overview of Mexican Americans social and economic experiences in Texas For hundreds of years Mexican Americans in Texas have fought against political oppression and exclusion in courtrooms in schools at the ballot box and beyond Through a detailed exploration of this long battle for equality this book illuminates critical moments of both struggle and triumph in the Mexican American experience Martha Menchaca begins with the Spanish settlement of Texas exploring how Mexican Americans racial heritage limited their incorporation into society after the territory's annexation She then illustrates their political struggles in the nineteenth century as they tried to assert their legal rights of citizenship and retain possession of their land and goes on to explore their fight in the twentieth century against educational segregation jury exclusion and housing covenants It was only in 1967 she shows that the collective pressure placed on the state government by Mexican American and African American activists led to the beginning of desegregation Menchaca concludes with a look at the crucial roles that Mexican Americans have played in national politics education philanthropy and culture while acknowledging the important work remaining to be done in the struggle for equality Yes to the City Max Holleran, 2022-07-05 A fascinating account of the growing Yes in My Backyard urban movement The exorbitant costs of urban housing and the widening gap in income inequality are fueling a combative new movement in cities around the world A growing number of influential activists aren't waiting for new public housing to be built Instead they're calling for more construction and denser cities in order to increase affordability Yes to the City offers an in depth look at the Yes in My Backyard YIMBY movement From its origins in San Francisco to its current cadre of activists pushing for new apartment towers in places like Boulder Austin and London Max

Holleran explores how urban density once maligned for its association with overpopulated slums has become a rallying cry for millennial activists locked out of housing markets and unable to pay high rents Holleran provides a detailed account of YIMBY activists campaigning for construction new zoning rules better public transit and even candidates for local and state office YIMBY groups draw together an unlikely coalition from developers and real estate agents to environmentalists and Holleran looks at the increasingly contentious battles between market driven pragmatists and rent control idealists Arguing that advocates for more housing must carefully weigh their demands for supply with the continuing damage of gentrification he shows that these individuals see high density urbanism and walkable urban spaces as progressive statements about the kind of society they would like to create Chronicling a major shift in housing activism during the past twenty years Yes to the City considers how one movement has reframed conversations about urban growth

Intersectionality and the City Lucie Bernroider, Anthony Miro Born, Christy Kulz, Sung Un Gang, 2025-06-06 This book combines intersectional perspectives and urban research to demonstrate the importance of intersectionality as a concept that can complement refigurational understandings of social change as the outcome of spatial conflicts Showing how intersectionality enables us to grasp the intersecting categories of inequality in these spatial tensions it remains attentive to the role of social difference and power in these processes as well as to modes of normativity and resistance. With case studies gathered from a range of national contexts it provides rich empirical insights into the relationship between urban spatialities, power dynamics and embodied social inequalities, addressing the manner in which different conflicts are made manifest intersectionally in and through situated urban spaces. The chapters consider issues such as the gendering and racialization of urban spaces, urban marginality and environmental pressures, intersectional power dynamics in research, heteronormative and cisgender-centric structures in the city, aging in the city, young people, control and insecurity, police violence, migrant emplacement and activism, racialized gentrification and commoning and pandemic safety and protest to explore the uneven outcomes of spatial planning and urban development. As such it draws attention to the interplay of various forces in the production of exclusion and injustice and will therefore appeal to scholars of sociology, geography and urban studies with interests in inequality, social change and resistance to exclusion.

Unconditional Care in Context John S. Sprinson, Ken Berrick, 2022. Unconditional Care in Context reclaims problems of ecological adversity, poverty, racism, housing instability, community disadvantage, food insecurity and social disconnection as central to understanding and working with systems involved with children and families. Without attention to these issues, intervention is limited to reactive strategies that require children and families to fail before they can receive support. This book is a call for the field of human services to reconnect with the concrete realities of families' real circumstances and enlarge its focus to include practices that are truly ecologically informed.

Play Among Books Miro Roman, Alice _ch3n81, 2021-12-06. How does coding change the way we think about architecture? This question opens up an important research perspective. They convey knowledge in the form of a project model that links the fields of architecture and information through two interwoven narrative strands in an infinite flow of real books. Focusing on the intersection of information technology and architectural formulation, the authors create an evolving intellectual reflection on digital architecture and computer science.

Making Precarity Work Laura A. Orrico, 2025-06-09. Shows how the precarious workers of Venice Beach, without help from the government, work together to create a safety net for themselves. In Making Precarity Work, sociologist Laura A. Orrico shows how Los Angeles's Venice Beach boardwalk, which is a magnet for tourists, is also a workplace, one that wouldn't exist without the motley crew of people selling art, drinking, performing, using drugs and working odd jobs who gather daily to engage in varied activities from selling crafts to minding each other's wares and asking for spare change. Throughout the book, Orrico lifts up this workplace as a collective accomplishment, demonstrating how it can be a safety net to manage insecurity and inequality for those opting into its flexible and precarious structure, as well as how the LA government's efforts to stabilize this work often disrupt the success of this collaborative and creative ecosystem. She also presents the ways this work can exacerbate those very inequalities. Sharing the personal stories of boardwalk workers Orrico considers these juxtaposed realities and asks her audience to question how we can and should respond to a society whose best option for the disadvantaged is precarity

Harassed Rebecca Hanson, Patricia Richards, 2019-05-29 Researchers frequently experience sexualized interactions sexual objectification and harassment as they conduct fieldwork These experiences are often left out of ethnographers tales from the field and remain unaddressed within qualitative literature Harassed argues that the androcentric racist and colonialist epistemological foundations of ethnographic methodology contribute to the silence surrounding sexual harassment and other forms of violence Rebecca Hanson and Patricia Richards challenge readers to recognize how these attitudes put researchers at risk further the solitude experienced by researchers lead others to question the validity of their work and in turn negatively impact the construction of ethnographic knowledge To improve methodological training data collection and knowledge produced by all researchers Harassed advocates for an embodied approach to ethnography that reflexively engages with the ways in which researchers bodies shape the knowledge they produce By challenging these assumptions the authors offer an opportunity for researchers advisors and educators to consider the multiple ways in which good ethnographic research can be conducted Beyond challenging current methodological training and mentorship Harassed opens discussions about sexual harassment and violence in the social sciences in general      Work Matters Maureen Perry-Jenkins,2024-08-20 The transition to parenthood is one of the most life altering and destabilizing life events that adults experience even those with significant financial and social resources We commonly hear about dual career professional couples coping with the wage penalties associated with new motherhood or a woman s career being derailed on the mommy track But we know much less about how low wage employed mothers and fathers manage the demands of full time work and new parenthood despite the fact that this group makes up the largest portion of working parents in the country In Work Matters Maureen Perry Jenkins examines the workplaces of low income workers as a critical but often overlooked social setting that shapes family life and child development Building on years of research and over 1 500 interviews with new mothers fathers and their children from the first year of parenthood through six years postpartum Perry Jenkins examines how work conditions help or hinder new parents abilities to engage as partners and parents and the consequences for children She argues that parents job conditions workplace policies hours and schedules experiences of autonomy and job pressure and workplace social supports directly affect the healthy development of infants and children She uncovers the job conditions that diminish new parents ability to care for their infants and highlights the conditions of low wage work that enhance parenting and child outcomes In the final chapter of the book she offers recommendations for parents employers and policy makers that benefit all especially the children      Squatter Life Javier Auyero,Sofía Servián,2025-02-21 In Squatter Life sociologist Javier Auyero and anthropologist Sof a Servi n detail the diverse and often precarious strategies that Argentina s urban poor rely on to survive Blending three years of ethnographic fieldwork and anthropological theory with personal narratives of Servi n s experience growing up and living in a squatter settlement the authors examine how Argentina s squatter communities contend with violence and secure necessities like food land and housing despite inadequate state support and protection Auyero and Servi n recount the bricolage of tactics these individuals employ to make ends meet such as relying on highly exploitative jobs patronage and networks of reciprocal exchange that can involve illicit activities Analyzing how these survival strategies intersect with class gender and political domination the authors present a nuanced account of marginality in Argentinian squatter settlements while maintaining a deeply human portrait of survival and persistence      Justice Alternatives Pat Carlen,Leandro Ayres França,2019-07-11 Justice is one of the most debated and reinterpreted of concepts within the fields of law criminology and criminal justice Bringing together 35 leading thinkers analysts and campaigners from around the world this collection presents a range of on going struggles for justice from abolitionist transitional transformative indigenous green and restorative perspectives Against a background of contemporary concerns about dark money plutocracies and populism these chapters raise questions about the relationships between social justice and criminal justice and between democracy knowledge and justice Overall the chapters also demonstrate the breadth variety and vibrancy of contemporary criminology and include amongst other cutting edge contributions chapters by John Braithwaite Michelle Brown Ian Loader Pat O Malley Joe Sim Susanne Karstedt Phil Scraton Richard Sparks Lo c Wacquant and Sandra Walklate Justice Alternatives is essential reading for students of criminology criminal justice and law as well as for other scholars and activists concerned about social justice policing courts imprisonment mass supervision rights and privatized justice The book s emphasis upon the importance of imagination experimentation innovation and debate aims to promote an optimism that there are always alternatives to inequality domination and oppression
