Tachet De Barneval,2017-10-12 Excerpt from The Saints of Erin Legendary History of Ireland The study of Irish history finds more votaries now the treasures long locked up in manuscript are now beginning to be presented to the reading public but a prejudice due to the rationalistic Spirit of the last century weighs on the early lives of the Irish saints Most frequently they are spoken of only with contempt Moore in his History of Ireland made a feeble vindication sheltering his rashness under the names of a Gibbon and a Montesquieu the writer of the following pages has done more he has drawn from them pictures full of interest and beauty He views the whole legend as a Christian artist not as an antiquarian or an historian The credibility of accounts does not enter into his sphere he takes up any that suits the woof of the tapestry which he weaves and which we trust our readers will find as pleasing as we have done About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Celtic Christianity and Climate Crisis Ray Simpson,2020-08-15 Celtic Christianity is the key not only for the future of the Church but of the whole planet argues Ray Simpson Founding Guardian of the Community of Aidan and Hilda Translations and Reprints from the Original Sources of European History University of Pennsylvania. Department of History,1897 The Irish Classical Self Laurie O'Higgins,2017-03-09 The Irish Classical Self considers the role of classical languages and learning in the construction of Irish cultural identities in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries focusing in particular on the lower ranks of society This eighteenth century notion of the classical self grew partly out of influential identity narratives developed in the seventeenth century by clerics on the European continent responding to influential critiques of the Irish as ignorant barbarians they published works demonstrating the value and antiquity of indigenous culture and made traditional annalistic claims about the antiquity of Irish and connections between Ireland and the biblical and classical world broadly known In the eighteenth century these and related ideas spread through Irish poetry which demonstrated the complex and continuing interaction of languages in the country a story of conflict but also of communication and amity The classical strain in the context of the non elite may seem like an unlikely phenomenon but the volume exposes the truth in the legend of the classical hedge schools which offered tuition in Latin and Greek to poor students for whom learning and claims to learning had particular meaning and power This volume surveys official data on schools and scholars together with literary and other

narratives showing how the schools inherently transgressive because of the Penal Laws drove concerns about class and political loyalty and inspired seductive but contentious retrospectives It demonstrates that classical interests among those in the humbler walks of life ran in the same channels as interests in Irish literature and contemporary Irish poetry and demands a closer look at the phenomenon in its entirety A People's History of Classics Edith Hall, Henry Stead, 2020-02-26 A People's History of Classics explores the influence of the classical past on the lives of working class people whose voices have been almost completely excluded from previous histories of classical scholarship and pedagogy in Britain and Ireland from the late 17th to the early 20th century This volume challenges the prevailing scholarly and public assumption that the intimate link between the exclusive intellectual culture of British elites and the study of the ancient Greeks and Romans and their languages meant that working class culture was a Classics Free Zone Making use of diverse sources of information both published and unpublished in archives museums and libraries across the United Kingdom and Ireland Hall and Stead examine the working class experience of classical culture from the Bill of Rights in 1689 to the outbreak of World War II They analyse a huge volume of data from individuals groups regions and activities in a huge range of sources including memoirs autobiographies Trade Union collections poetry factory archives artefacts and documents in regional museums This allows a deeper understanding not only of the many examples of interaction with the Classics but also what these cultural interactions signified to the working poor from the promise of social advancement to propaganda exploited by the elites to covert and overt class war A People's History of Classics offers a fascinating and insightful exploration of the many and varied engagements with Greece and Rome among the working classes in Britain and Ireland and is a must read not only for classicists but also for students of British and Irish social intellectual and political history in this period Further it brings new historical depth and perspectives to public debates around the future of classical education and should be read by anyone with an interest in educational policy in Britain today Bowker's Guide to Characters in Fiction 2007, 2008-02 Live of the Irish Saints, with Special Festivals, and the Commemorations of Holy Persons O'Hanlon John Canon (Irish Catholic priest), 1873 The Harvard Classics: Complete 51-Volume Collection Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, Gotthold Ephraim Lessing, Thomas Carlyle, Plato, René Descartes, Immanuel Kant, Charles Darwin, Martin Luther, Robert Louis Stevenson, William Shakespeare, Dante Alighieri, Euripides, Percy Bysshe Shelley, Charles Lamb, Henry David Thoreau, Samuel Johnson, John Stuart Mill, David Hume, Joseph Addison, John Locke, John Fletcher, Francis Beaumont, Leigh Hunt, Epictetus, Thomas De Quincey, Samuel Taylor Coleridge, Jonathan Swift, Christopher Marlowe, Jacob Grimm, Wilhelm Grimm, William Hazlitt, Marcus Tullius Cicero, Daniel Defoe, Aesop, Richard Henry Dana, John Dryden, Philip Massinger, Pedro Calderón de la Barca, John Ruskin, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Ernest Renan, Robert Burns, David Garrick, Ralph Waldo Emerson, John Webster, Izaak Walton, John Bunyan, James Russell Lowell, Charles Augustin Sainte-Beuve, Homer, Edmund Burke, Plutarch, Molière, Aeschylus, Michael Faraday, Sophocles, William Makepeace Thackeray, Benjamin Franklin, Pierre
