Werhane, 2013-12-19 This text brings together case studies focusing on specific instances of corporate best practices All too often we showcase cases based on questionable or unethical corporate behavior Instead the editors bring together in this book examples of how some firms got it right Certainly there is no claim that the companies in these cases are perfect some of them may have histories that include questionable practices But these are companies that work to foster trust both internally and in their relationships with customers suppliers shareholders and the communities in which they operate The book is not however merely a descriptive iteration of effective corporate conduct The editors conclude with an analysis of frameworks for corporate and managerial ethical decision making frameworks that help to establish models for best practices These frameworks then can be generalized and applied to other corporate situations and replicated by other companies in their search for excellence and the resulting avoidance of misconduct

wider organisational context human factors issues in aircraft maintenance and grounding are critical to aviation safety our capacity to learn from aviation accidents and incidents needs to be supported by more systematic human factors investigation and research we must also develop our understanding of the human factors of accident survival as well as accident prevention theories of crew coordination and decision making must be supported by an analysis of how decisions are actually made in the real world with all its stresses and constraints training should be grounded in a thoroughgoing analysis of the complexity of the job and a full understanding of the training process itself The text will be of interest to human factors researchers and practitioners in aviation and related areas It will be of particular relevance to those who have a role in training management or regulation throughout the aviation system
