Fred Damara,2015-09-01 It takes a lot of food for an active person to survive Eating local takes on a whole new meaning in a survival scenario and while growing your own food is never easy it is the surest way to a full belly A crop can be nurtured controlled and even protected as need be To a starving stranger or a starving horde your crops or pantry items are probably worth more than is your life You won t have to defend something that nobody covets and nobody covets what they don t know you have The ability to feed oneself efficiently and discreetly under varying conditions could be an indispensable skill in a prolonged upheaval where normal food distribution is halted or seriously disrupted Gardening of any kind is not rocket science people have been doing it for millennia all across the globe but there are specific skills you will need to develop to get macro production in clandestine micro settings Choosing appropriate and compatible crops Camouflaging crops with natural and improvised screens Maximizing natural barrier plants and pesticides Adapting raised bed square foot tower and canopy gardening to your site Feeding your garden with natural compost and manure Growing foods without soil or sunshine An added bonus of growing your own food is that it is cheaper fresher tastier and as organic as you make it and your footprint carbon and otherwise is greatly minimized The perfect companion to his Eating on the Run and Survival Guide to Edible Insects Fred Demara s new how to manual Guerrilla Gardening for Long Term Survival gives readers food for thought about starting their own guerrilla gardens

Guerrilla Gardening David Tracey,2007-04-01 The term guerrilla may bring to mind a small band of armed soldiers moving in the dead of night on a stealth mission In the case of guerrilla gardening the soldiers are planters the weapons are shovels and the mission is to transform an abandoned lot into a thing of beauty Once an environmentalist s nonviolent direct action for inner city renewal this movement is spreading to all types of people in cities around the world These modern day Johnny Appleseeds perform random acts of gardening often without permission Typical targets are vacant lots railway land underused public squares and back alleys The concept is simple whimsical and has the cheeky appeal of being a not quite legal call to action Dig in some soil plant a few seeds or mend a sagging fence one good deed inspiring another with win win benefits all around Guerrilla Gardening outlines the power to the people campaign for greening our cities Tips for effective involvement include Finding plants and seeds cheap or free Handling city officials Getting the dirt on soil Planting to bring back the birds Knowing when to ask first Social activists city dwellers and longtime gardeners will delight in this fast paced and funny call to arms David Tracey is a journalist and environmental designer who operates EcoUrbanist in Vancouver He is executive director of Tree City Canada a nonprofit ecological engagement group

Poyyamoli,2017-06-26 Tropical ecosystems are some of the most biologically and ecologically diverse in the world Traditional local agroecosystems in the tropics reflect this diversity and provide excellent examples of how nature can be used as the model for designing and managing sustainable agroecosystems This book brings together such examples Using an agroecological approach the collection of chapters demonstrates how agroecology must simultaneously be a science a practice and a movement for social change towards a paradigm of sustainability that engages all parts of the food system from the field to the table Chapter contributors were selected from multiple countries and backgrounds providing a valuable diversity of approaches and knowledge systems and the interaction of these systems gives this book the important transdisciplinarity that has become a key component of agroecology Working across disciplines and knowledge systems is necessary in order to link the multiple
