Hawthorne, Sculpture, and the Question of American Art Deanna Fernie, 2016-12-05 Deanna Fernie analyzes the significance of sculpture in Hawthorne's fiction through the recurring motif of the fragment in its double guise as ruin and project. Her book casts new light on Hawthorne's memorable ruined and unfinished images from the rough-hewn figurehead of Drowne's Wooden Image 1844 to the tattered letter A in the unfinished loft of the Custom House in The Scarlet Letter 1850 and the unfinished bust of Donatello in The Marble Faun 1860. Fernie shows how the tension between the formed and unformed enabled Hawthorne to interrogate the origins and the distinctive possibilities of art in America in relation to established European models. At the same time, she suggests that sculpture challenged and provoked Hawthorne's shaping of his own specifically literary art, stimulating him to develop its capacities for expressing irresolution and change. Fernie establishes the intellectual contexts for her study through a discussion of sculpture and fragmentary form as revealed in American, British, and Continental thought. Her book will be an important text not only for American literature scholars but also for anyone interested in British and Continental Romanticism and the intersections of art and literature.

The Evolution of Management Thought Daniel A. Wren, Arthur G. Bedeian, 2023-10-03 The new edition of the canonical text on the history and development of management thought. Far more than a chronicle of the historical development of modern management's many roots, the newly released ninth edition of The Evolution of Management Thought by Daniel A. Wren and Arthur G. Bedeian is a fascinating telling of how ideas about the nature of work, the nature of human beings, and the nature of organizations have changed throughout history. Its methodology is analytic, synthetic, and interdisciplinary. It is analytic in that it examines the backgrounds, experiences, and beliefs of people who made significant contributions to management thinking. It is synthetic in that it weaves developmental trends, social movements, and environmental forces into a conceptual framework for understanding how management thinking has evolved within and across generations. It is interdisciplinary in that it draws insights from economics, history, political science, psychology, and sociology to explain why management thinking has developed as it has. The authors trace the intellectual history of modern management thought as an activity and as an academic discipline in a way that makes reading The Evolution of Management Thought a thoroughly enjoyable encounter. Designed for upper-level and graduate courses, this new edition further cements The Evolution of Management Thought's place as the standard text in the field of management history for more than half a century.

Ultimately they both pondered. It discusses common themes in their works such as myth, scientism and the great power of blackness. Their respective attitudes toward these issues and others such as faith, repentance, heaven and hell, confession, church attendance, the clergy and Puritanism are strikingly similar. Considerable attention is given to companion pieces of the two writers with discussion of the so-called Fortunate Fall in The Marble Faun and Perelandra, veil imagery in The Minister's Black Veil, The Blithedale Romance and Till We Have Faces, influence of Bunyan's allegory on The Pilgrim's Regress and The Celestial Railroad, and multiform love in The Four Loves and The House of the Seven Gables. american prose George Rice Carpenter, 1898 Main Street (From: "The Snow Image and Other Twice-Told Tales") Nathaniel Hawthorne, 2019-11-29 In Main Street, a poignant tale from Nathaniel Hawthorne's The Snow Image and Other Twice-Told Tales, the author masterfully weaves a narrative that explores the complexities of human interaction within the confines of a seemingly idyllic small town setting. In this succinct yet rich story, Hawthorne employs a blend of allegorical elements and vivid imagery that embodies the literary style of American Romanticism, characterized by a deep introspection and an exploration of moral themes. The story reflects the tension between individual desires and social expectations, offering a keen insight into the human condition amidst the backdrop of 19th-century America. Nathaniel Hawthorne, an eminent American novelist and short story writer, draws upon his own experiences growing up in the New England atmosphere, a region marked by strict Puritan values and a rich literary heritage. Hawthorne's keen interest in the darker aspects of human existence and his exploration of sin, guilt, and redemption are greatly influenced by his ancestry and early life. His unique perspective as both an observer and participant in the complexities of societal norms informs the depth of character and motivation exhibited in Main Street. Readers seeking a rich, thought-provoking narrative will find Main Street to be an essential exploration of community and individuality. Its timeless relevance and eloquent prose make it a deserving addition to both academic and personal libraries. This tale is not merely a reflection of its era but a meditative piece that invites contemporary readers to consider the implications of living in a closely knit society

Portraits and Biographical Sketches of Twenty American Authors, 1893 Writers of the American Renaissance Denise Knight, 2003-12-30 The American literary canon has undergone revision and expansion in recent years and our notions of the 19th century renaissance have been reevaluated Mainstream anthologies have been revised to reflect the expanding literary canon yet resources for readers have remained widely scattered This book expands earlier definitions of the 19th century American Renaissance as represented by canonical writers such as Emerson and Poe covering writers who published popular fiction and dominated the literary marketplace of the day Included is generous coverage of women writers and writers of color The volume provides alphabetically arranged entries for more than 70 writers of the period including Louisa May Alcott Emily Dickinson Frederick Douglass Margaret Fuller Nathaniel Hawthorne Herman Melville Harriet Beecher Stowe Henry David Thoreau Walt Whitman and many more Each entry was written by an expert contributor and includes a brief biography a discussion of major works and themes a survey of the writer's critical reception and primary and secondary bibliographies

The School of Hawthorne Richard H. Brodhead, 1990-02-22 In The School of Hawthorne Brodhead uses Hawthorne as a prime example of how literary traditions are made not born Under Brodhead's scrutiny the Hawthorne tradition opens out onto a wide array of subjects many of which have received little previous attention He offers a detailed account of Hawthorne's life in American letters showing how authors as varied as Melville Howells James and Faulkner have learned from Hawthorne's model while all the while changing the terms in which he has been read As he traces Hawthorne's continued life among his heirs Brodhead also reflects on the ways in which writers receive and resist official tradition how their work is conditioned by the institutionalized pasts that surround them and how they go about creating new traditions to counter existing ones An important contribution to literary history The School of Hawthorne also establishes new ways in which literary history itself can be understood
