Growing Through The Narrow Spots:

Growing Through the Narrow Spots Ruth Bachman, 2013 A nationally respected writer educator cancer advocate and inspirational speaker Ruth brings a timeless message about the one constant in life change If cancer is the narrow spot in an hourglass and I am the sand then I have traveled from the top through that tight spot to the bottom the same sand but with a different arrangement When you go through that narrow spot your sand is refined and redefined sifting out interior resources not previously noticed or called upon Life is full of narrow spots not all labeled cancer However cancer is the narrow spot that has given me the opportunity to look at life with a different perspective not once but twice It informs the way I choose to live life every day Ruth Bachman

The Eurasian Way of War David A. Graff, 2016-03-10 This book is a comparative study of military practice in Sui Tang China and the Byzantine Empire between approximately 600 and 700 CE It covers all aspects of the military art from weapons and battlefield tactics to logistics campaign organization military institutions and the grand strategy of empire Whilst not neglecting the many differences between the Chinese and Byzantines this book highlights the striking similarities in their organizational structures tactical deployments and above all their extremely cautious approach to warfare It shows that contrary to the conventional wisdom positing a straightforward Western way of war and an Oriental approach characterized by evasion and trickery the specifics of Byzantine military practice in the seventh century differed very little from what was known in Tang China It argues that these similarities cannot be explained by diffusion or shared cultural influences which were limited but instead by the need to deal with common problems and confront common enemies in particular the nomadic peoples of the Eurasian steppes Overall this book provides compelling evidence that pragmatic needs may have more influence than deep cultural imperatives in determining a society's way of war
