Going For Gold Men Mines And Migration Perspectives On Southern Africa:

Going for Gold T. Dunbar Moodie, 1994-09-27 This book tells the story of the lives of migrant black African men who work on the South African gold mines told from their own point of view and as much as possible in their own words Dunbar Moodie examines the operation of local power structures and resistances changes in production techniques the limits and successes of unionization and the nature of ethnic conflicts at different periods and on different terrains of struggle He treats his subject thematically and historically examining how notions of integrity manhood sexuality work power solidarity and violence have all changed over time especially with the shift to a proletarianized work force on the mines in the 1970s Moodie integrates analyses of individual life strategies with theories of social change illuminating the ways in which these play off each other in historically significant ways He shows how human beings in this case African men build integrity and construct their own social order even in situations of apparent total repression Perspectives of Labour Migration from Mzimba District, Malawi, to South Africa Banda, Harvey Chidoba, 2017-08-16 Labour migration from Malawi to South Africa is a century old phenomenon It dates as far back as the 1880s following the establishment of diamond and gold mines In the period up to the 1980s this migration took either formal or informal nature whereas in the post 1990 period it became exclusively informal popularly known as selufu in Malawi This book is an attempt to shed light on both forms of migration over time By using the case of Mzimba one of the major labour migration districts in Malawi Perspectives of Labour Migration shows that migration especially in the post 1990 period remains a preoccupation of the different categories of both men and women in selected areas in the country A cross section of Malawians continue to regard emigration to South Africa as a means to an end a way of fulfilling their heart felt and life time goals at household and societal levels Because of their distinguished and unparalleled determination these labour migrants continue to flock to South Africa in the midst of such challenges as xenophobia crime arrests and deportations The book advances the argument that Malawian labour migrants are purposive and rational human beings who are ready to overcome these challenges at times using the most improbable means for example through the use of mankhwala gha mwabi luck medicine The Experience of Economic Redistribution Clarence Tshitereke, 2006-10-09 This book provides an analysis of the country's political economy in transition It documents the history of the gold mining industry's involvement in shaping the political landscape of South Africa and shows the degree to which the political transition was induced to put in place a new mode of regulation for capital accumulation In the process the victims of apartheid have now become victims of democracy's neo liberalism as the government is constrained from being developmental interventionist and redistributive Border Jumping and Migration Control in Southern Africa Francis Musoni, 2020-04-07 With the end of apartheid rule in South Africa and the ongoing economic crisis in Zimbabwe the border between these Southern African countries has become one of the busiest inland ports of entry in the world As border crossers wait for clearance crime violence and illegal entries have become rampant Francis Musoni observes that border jumping has become a way of life for many of those who live on both sides of the Limpopo River and he explores the reasons for this including searches for better paying jobs and access to food and clothing at affordable prices Musoni sets these actions into a framework of illegality He considers how countries have failed to secure their borders why passports are denied to travelers and how border jumping has become a phenomenon with a long history especially in Africa Musoni emphasizes cross border travelers active participation in the making of this history and how clandestine mobility has presented opportunity and creative possibilities for those who are willing to take the risk Mantua Humanistic Studies. Volume I Erika Notti, Edoardo Scarpanti, 2018-03-22 The present book is intended to represent the first volume of a long series which will be devoted to collect studies proceedings and papers in the field of Humanities The title Mantua Humanistic Studies reminds us to a historical town in northern Italy Mantua that had been for a long time the capital of one of the most powerful and culturally influencing dynasties of the Renaissance the Gonzaga family Mantua has an extraordinary richness in terms of history arts and tradition of studies and is now one of the main Unesco Heritage sites Among the artists who have left their masterworks in the city we can find Pisanello Andrea Mantegna Leon Battista Alberti Giulio Romano Rubens Titian and many others Even if in the time of the Gonzagas the city had a strong history of humanistic studies mainly established by the great teacher Vittorino Da Feltre during the following centuries Mantua gradually lost great part of its cultural influence especially after the end of the leading dynasty at the beginning of the 18th Century Maybe the only real exception was the renowned Accademia Nazionale Virgiliana Nevertheless in very recent years some Italian Academic Institutions and Universities have rediscovered the cultural importance of the town and they moved here with some of their Bachelor and Master degrees the Politecnico of Milano the University of Verona and in 2018 the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia More and more students are moving into our old city every year and the future could really be bright in the terms of culture teaching and research Mantua Humanistic Studies would like to be a small but maybe not useless contribution to what could be a second Renaissance for the capital of the Gonzagas offered by a small but active Scientific Publishing House which was born and still operates in this small but incredible town The Cultures of Economic Migration Tope Omoniyi, 2016-03-16 This volume explores the processes of economic migration the social conditions that follow it and the discourses that underlie research into it Reflecting critically on economic migration and on the process of studying and creating knowledge about it the contributors address the question of whether recent enquiries into modernity bring a newer and better comprehension of the nature of dislocation and movement or whether these serve simply to replicate familiar modes of placing people and individuals The book is organized into perspectives in and on specific continents Europe Asia and Africa in order to explore notions regarding economic migration within and across regions as well as towards displacing the Eurocentrism of many studies of migration South African Homelands as Frontiers Steffen Jensen, Olaf Zenker, 2018-02-02 This book explores what happened to the homelands in many ways the ultimate apartheid disgrace after the fall of apartheid The nine chapters contribute to understanding the multiple configurations that currently exist in areas formerly declared homelands or Bantustans Using the concept of frontier zones the homelands emerge as areas in which the future of the South African postcolony is being renegotiated contested and remade with hyper real intensity This is so because the many fault lines left over from apartheid its loose ends so to speak between white and black between different ethnicities between rich and poor or differentiated by gender generation and nationality between traditions and modernities or between wilderness and human habitation are particularly acute and condensed in these so called communal areas Hence the book argues that it is particularly in these settings that the postcolonial promise of liberation and freedom must face its test As such the book offers highly nuanced and richly detailed analyses that go to the heart of the diverse dilemmas of post apartheid South Africa as a whole but simultaneously also provides in condensed form an extended case study on the predicaments of African postcoloniality in general This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Southern African Studies

Affective Health and Masculinities in South Africa Hans Reihling, 2020-04-03 Affective Health and Masculinities in South Africa explores how different masculinities modulate substance use interpersonal violence suicidality and AIDS as well as recovery cross culturally With a focus on three male protagonists living in very distinct urban areas of Cape Town this comparative ethnography shows that men s struggles to become invulnerable increase vulnerability Through an analysis of masculinities as social assemblages the study shows how affective health problems are tied to modern individualism rather than African tradition that has become a cliché in Eurocentric gender studies Affective health is conceptualized as a balancing act between autonomy and connectivity that after colonialism and apartheid has become compromised through the imperative of self reliance This book provides a rare perspective on young men s vulnerability in everyday life that may affect the reader and spark discussion about how masculinities in relationships shape physical and psychological health Moreover it shows how men change in the face of distress in ways that may look different than global health and gender transformative approaches envision Thick descriptions of actual events over the life course make the study accessible to both graduate and undergraduate students in the social sciences Contributing to current debates on mental health and masculinity this volume will be of interest to scholars from various disciplines including anthropology gender studies African studies psychology and global health

Reflections on Identity in Four African Cities S. B. Bekker, Anne Leildé, 2006 Identity has become the watchword of our times In sub Saharan Africa this certainly appears to be true and for particular reasons Africa is urbanising rapidly cross border migration streams are swelling and globalising influences sweep across the continent Africa is also facing up to the challenge of nurturing emergent democracies in which citizens often feel torn between older traditional and newer national loyalties Accordingly collective identities are deeply coloured by recent urban as well as international experience and are squarely located within identity politics where reconciliation is required between state nation building strategies and sub national affiliations They are also fundamentally shaped by the growing inequality and the poverty found on this continent These themes are explored by an international set of scholars in two South African and two Francophone cities The relative importance to urban residents of race class and ethnicity but also of work space and language are compared in these cities This volume also includes a chapter investigating the emergence of a continental African identity A recent report of the Office of the South African President claims that a strong national identity is emerging among its citizens and that race and ethnicity are waning whilst a class identity is in the ascendance The evidence and analyses within this volume serve to gauge the extent to which such claims ring true in what everyone knows is a much more complex and shifting terrain of shared meanings than can ever be captured by such generalisations Proletarian and Gendered Mass

Migrations ,2013-05-02 Proletarian and Gendered Mass Migrations connects the 19th and 20th century labor migrations and migration systems in global transcultural perspective It emphasizes macro regional internal continuities or discontinuities and interactions between and within macro regions The essays look at migrant workers experiences in constraining frames and the options they seize or constraints they circumvent It traces the development from 19th century proletarian migrations to industries and plantations across the globe to 20th and 21st century domestics and caregiver migrations It integrates male and female migration and shows how women have always been present in mass migrations Studies on historical development over time are supplemented by case studies on present migrations in Asia and from Asia A systems approach is combined with human agency perspectives Contributors include Rochelle Ball Shelly Chan Dennis D Cordell Michael Douglass Christiane Harzig Dirk Hoerder Muhamad Nadrattuzaman Hosen Hass ne Kassar Kamel Kateb Amarjit Kaur Kiranjit Kaur Gijss Kessler Akram Khater Elizabeth A Kuznesof Vera Mackie Adam McKeown Tomoko Nakamatsu Ooi Keat Gin Aswatini Raharto Marlou Schrover and Patcharawalai Wongboonsin Production, Safety and Teamwork in a Deep-Level

Mining Workplace Sizwe Timothy Phakathi,2017-11-23 The book highlights the day to day lived experience of miners work and organisational practices that shape the day to day running of the production process in a deep level mining workplace

Politics and Society in South Africa Daryl Glaser,2000-12-22 Darryl Glaser supplies an illuminating overview of the scholarship since 1970 on South Africa s political history His emphasis is on the debates between liberals Marxists and to a lesser extent post structuralists about the origins and the course of South Africa s racial order Tom Lodge University of Witwatersrand A well researched well argued readable interesting informative and competent study Capital and Class Providing a wide ranging and critical introduction to contemporary South Africa this book uses an interdisciplinary lens to introduce the student to the main debates historical context and issues that have characterized the study of South Africa over the last three decades Key topics include the role of colonialism capitalism and modernity in the formation of the racial order changes in the South African state questions of class race and ethnicity black resistance and the transition to democracy A number of underlying debates are critically evaluated For example the contribution of materialist and class analytic approaches the application of post structuralism and theories of modernity and the prospects for democratic liberalism and socialism in post apartheid South Africa The Men and the Boys Raewyn Connell, 2013-05-02 In recent years questions about men and boys have aroused remarkable media interest public concern and controversy Across the world health services are noticing the relevance of men's gender to problems as diverse as road accidents diet and sexually transmitted disease Teachers are increasingly preoccupied with the poor educational performance of boys and criminologists have begun to explore why men and boys continue to dominate the crime statistics In this timely new volume one of the world's leading authorities on masculinity helps us to understand these developments and make sense of the multiplying issues about men and boys Five years on from the publication of the seminal study Masculinities this book reflects on the growing social scientific research in this area Connell assesses its strengths and weaknesses and explores its implications for contemporary problems from boys education and men's health to international peacemaking Written in a lively and accessible way this book will be essential reading for all students of sociology politics and gender studies as well as anyone interested in the future of gender relations

The Archaeology of Colonialism Barbara L. Voss, Eleanor Conlin Casella, 2011-10-31 This volume examines human sexuality as an intrinsic element in the interpretation of complex colonial societies While archaeological studies of the historic past have explored the dynamics of European colonialism such work has largely ignored broader issues of sexuality embodiment commemoration reproduction and sensuality Recently however scholars have begun to recognize these issues as essential components of colonization and imperialism This book explores a variety of case studies revealing the multifaceted intersections of colonialism and sexuality Incorporating work that ranges from Phoenician diasporic communities of the eighth century to Britain's nineteenth century Australian penal colonies to the contemporary Maroon community of Brazil this volume changes the way we understand the relationship between sexuality and colonial history

Music, Modernity, and the Global Imagination Veit Erlmann, 1999 How do Western images of Africa and African representations of the West mirror each other This study focuses on the tours of two black South African choirs in England and America in the 1890s and the popularity of Ladysmith Black Mambazo since 1986

Global Practices of Corporate Social Responsibility Samuel O Idowu, Walter Leal Filho, 2008-12-21 Being socially responsible on the part of corporate entities is now no longer an option it is part of their normal business obligations to all their stakeholders regardless of whether these are primary or secondary stakeholders Modern societies around the world now expect corporate entities of all shapes and forms to be socially responsible in whatever they do the Global Practices of Corporate Social Responsibility is a first attempt at bringing together in one book experts accounts of how corporate entities in twenty independent nations around the world are dealing with the issue of CSR The world today faces diverse social problems These become apparent as one moves from one country to the next interestingly society now expects corporations to help in finding solutions to these problems The problem of global warming affects us all modern corporations can no longer continue to assume that the problem will go away if nothing is done by them We can all make a little difference by our actions

Biotraffic Christopher

Morris, 2024-10-15 Biotraffic explores the complex world of biological resource trade. It takes readers inside the contemporary Ciskei region of South Africa, a once notorious apartheid homeland turned extractive hub for wild medicinal plants. Drawing from in-depth ethnographic and archival research, Christopher Morris examines the region's trade in Pelargonium sidoides, a plant once contested as a tuberculosis treatment in early twentieth-century Europe and now an internationally marketed remedy for the common cold. The story of this trade links past and present, encapsulating a larger tale about colonial legacies and their intersection with global environmental governance ambitions. It also teems with a diverse cast of actors from plant harvesters and pharmaceutical companies to activist NGOs and the chiefs who have become business partners with multinational drug firms. The book's analysis extends beyond considering merely the extraction and commercialization of plant resources and offers a critical examination of how demand for therapeutics intertwines with broader struggles over land and political power in South Africa. Biotraffic illuminates how a distance-defying trade is reshaping the sociopolitical landscape of a region, a region grappling with apartheid's afterlives and the challenges of environmental and economic justice.

Cultures in Contact Dirk Hoerder, 2002-11-21 Analysis of migrations, regional interregional, continent-wide and global, and the resulting cultural interactions and societal changes.

Circular Migration in Zimbabwe & Contemporary Sub-Saharan Africa Deborah Helen Potts, 2010 The World Bank insists that the urban share of sub-Saharan Africa's population is rapidly increasing; this study shows that in many countries this is no longer true as migration strategies have adapted in response to economic and political change. Circular migration, whereby rural migrants do not remain permanently in town, has particular significance in the academic literature on development and urbanization in Africa, often having negative connotations in southern Africanist studies due to its links with an iniquitous migrant labour system. Literature on other African regions often views circular migration more positively. This book reviews the current evidence about circular migration and urbanization in sub-Saharan Africa. The author challenges the dominant view that rural-urban migration continues unabated and shows that circular migration has continued and has adapted with faster out-migration in the face of declining urban economic opportunities. The empirical core of the book illustrates these trends through a detailed examination of the case of Zimbabwe based on the author's longstanding research on Harare. The political and economic changes in Zimbabwe since the 1980s transformed Harare from one of the best African cities to live in over this period to one of the worst. Harare citizens' livelihoods exemplify in microcosm the central theme of the book: the reinvention of circulation and rural-urban links in response to economic change. Deborah Potts is a Senior Lecturer in the Geography Department of King's College London. She works in the broad research field of urbanization and migration in sub-Saharan Africa, particularly southern Africa, and has conducted research on these themes in Harare in Zimbabwe since 1985.
