Putting Health into Place Robin A. Kearns, Wilbert M. Gesler, 1998-06-01 Putting Health into Place draws together original works that collectively argue for a reinvention of medical geography There is a growing interest worldwide in relationships between human health and the experience of place an interest driven both by developments in sociocultural theory and observed health concerns This book is a resource for those wishing to explore or to teach beyond the frontiers of conventional medical geography As the first word of the book's title suggests this is an active volume one that contributes to situating health in the simultaneously tangible negotiated and experienced realities of place Robin A Kearns and Wilbert M Gesler argue that medical issues are a necessary but insufficient focus in developing geographies of health and healing This contention is supported by the authors of the thirteen substantive chapters who convey research findings from the Americas Britain and the Pacific This book represents a collective commitment to exploring links between social and cultural theory ideas about place and discourses on health that will be of interest to readers across the social and health sciences

Spirit and Place Christopher Day, 2012-06-14 Built environment surrounds us for 90% of our lives but only now are we realising its influence on the environment our health and how we think feel and behave both individually and socially Spirit how to moderate climate to make places of delight and realign social pressures so places both support society and maximise economic viability Thought provoking and easy to understand Christopher Day uses everyday examples to relate his theories to practice and our experience

Space, Place and Mental Health Professor Sarah Curtis, 2012-11-28 There is a strong case today for a specific focus on mental public health and its relation to social and physical environments From a public health perspective we now appreciate the enormous significance of mental distress and illness as causes of disability and impairment Stress and anxiety and other mental illnesses are linked to risks in the environment This book questions how and why the social and physical environment matters for mental health and psychological wellbeing in human populations While putting forward a number of different points of view there is a particular emphasis on ideas and research from health geography which conceptualises space and place in ways that provide a distinctive focus on the interactions between people and their social and physical environment The book begins with an overview of a rich body of theory and research from sociology psychology social epidemiology social psychiatry and neuroscience considering arguments concerning mind body dualism and presenting a conceptual framework for studying how attributes of space and place are associated with human mental wellbeing It goes on to look in detail at how our mental health is associated with material or physical aspects of our environment such as natural and built landscapes with social environments involving social relationships in communities and with symbolic and imagined spaces representing the personal cultural and spiritual meanings of places These relationships are shown to be complex with potential to be beneficial or hazardous for mental health The final chapters of the book consider spaces of care and the implications of space and place for public mental health policy offering a broader view of how mental health might be improved at the population level With boxed case studies of specific research ideas and methods chapter summaries and suggestions for introductory reading this book offers a comprehensive introduction which will be valuable for students of health geography public health sociology and anthropology of health and illness It also provides an interdisciplinary review of the literature by the author and by other writers to frame a discussion of issues that challenge more advanced researchers in these fields

The Psychology of Religion and Place Victor Counted, Fraser Watts, 2019-11-01 This book examines the role of religious and spiritual experiences in people's understanding of their environment The contributors consider how understandings and experiences of religious and place connections are motivated by the need to seek and maintain contact with perceptual objects so as to form meaningful relationship experiences The volume is one of the first scholarly attempts to discuss the psychological links between place and religious experiences The chapters within provide insights for understanding how people's experiences with geographical places and the sacred serve as agencies for meaning making pro social behaviour and psychological adjustment in everyday life

Warra Warra Wai Darren Rix, Craig Cormick, 2024-09-04
Shortlisted for the Queensland Literary Awards Work of State Significance and The University of Queensland Non Fiction Book Award Shortlisted for the 2025 Prime Minister's Literary Awards Australian History Winner of the 2025 NSW History Award Australian History Prize Winner of the 2025 ACT Literary Award Non Fiction Winner of the First Nations History Award Canberra Critics Circle Awards 2024 For the first time the First Nations story of Cook's arrival and what blackfellas want everyone to know about the coming of Europeans. Both 250 years late and extremely timely, this is an account of what First Nations people saw and felt when James Cook navigated their shores in 1770. We know the European story from diaries, journals and letters. For the first time, this is the other side. Who were the people watching the Endeavour sail by? How did they understand their world and what sense did they make of this strange vision? And what was the impact of these first encounters with Europeans? The answers lie in tales passed down from 1770 and in truth-telling of the often more brutal engagements that followed. Darren Rix, a Gunditjmarra GunaiKurnai man, radio reporter and Archie Roach's nephew, and his co-author Craig Cormick travelled to all the places on the east coast that were renamed by Cook and listened to people's stories. With their permission, these stories have been woven together with the European accounts and placed in their deeper context: the places Cook named already had names, the places he discovered already had peoples and stories stretching back before time, and although Cook sailed on the empire he represented, impacted the people's lives and lands immeasurably in the years after. Warra Warra Wai was the expression called to Cook and his crew when they tried to make landfall in Botany Bay. It has long been interpreted as 'Go away' but is perhaps more accurately translated as 'You are all dead spirits'. In adding the First Nations version of these first encounters to the story of Australian history, this is a book that will sit on Australian shelves alongside Cook's Journals, Dark Emu and The Fatal Shore as one of our foundational texts.
