Helen M. Buss, 2006-01-01. Why does it seem as if everyone is writing memoirs, and particularly women? The current popularity of memoir verifies the common belief that we each have a story to tell. And we do, especially women. Memoirs are not only representations of women's personal lives but also of their desire to repossess important parts of our culture in which women's stories have not mattered. Beginning with her own motivations for writing memoirs, Helen M. Buss examines the many kinds of memoir written by contemporary women: memoirs about growing up, memoirs about traumatic events, about relationships, about work. In writing memoirs, these women publicly assert that their lives have mattered. They reshape the memoir, a form as old as the middle ages and as young as today, into a social discourse that blends the personal with the political, the self with the significant other, literature with history and fiction with autobiography and essay. Buss urges readers to use their reading experience to help themselves understand and write the significance of their own lives.

Repossessing the World is the first book length critical inquiry into women s use of a form that has often been dismissed as less important than autobiography less professional than the novel and less intellectual than the formal essay Buss demonstrates that the memoir makes its own art not only through selective borrowing from these genres but also through the unique way that the tripartite narrative voice of the memoir constructs the personal and public experience of the memorist as significant to our cultural moment Re-visioning Feminism Around the World ,1995 Short essays by 85 feminist writers on the future of feminsim Writers include Elizabeth Janeway Tillie Olsen Nell Painter Grace Paley Alix Kates Shelman Alice Walker and others I Dwell in Possibility ,2016 Emily Dickinson s poem I dwell in possibility lies beneath a moving iris mechanism assembled from laser cut pieces of cherry wood which opens and closes with a sliding lever Journal of Women's History ,1993 The Longman Sourcebook for Writing Program Administrators Irene Ward,William James Carpenter,2008 The Longman Sourcebook for Writing Program Administrators serves as a reference work and handbook for those charged with administering writing programs at colleges and universities Both English Department Chairpersons and Directors of Writing Programs will find this an essential resource The book is also intended for graduate level courses in writing program administration serving as an introduction to the theory issues and practical problems of writing program administration WPA, Writing Program Administration ,1996
