Postmodern, Marxist, and Christian Historical Novels Lynne W. Hinojosa, 2022-06-15 Postmodern Marxist and Christian Historical Novels Hope and the Burdens of History argues historical novels can help readers receive the burdens of history meaning both the burdens of the past present and future and the burden of living in time and develop a more robust conception of and concrete practice of hope Since the 1960s historical novels have been a dominant literary genre but they have been influenced primarily not by Christian but by postmodern and marxist thinkers and writers This book provides a theological and literary analysis of all three types of historical novels postmodern marxist and Christian and outlines what each school of thought can learn from each other regarding historical understanding and hope Using Jürgen Moltmann's theology of hope and Frank Kermode's literary criticism as a theoretical basis the book offers readings of novels by Julian Barnes A.S. Byatt Kazuo Ishiguro Margaret Atwood Michael Ondaatje Ian McEwan and Ursula LeGuin among others and ends with an extended analysis of Marilynne Robinson's Gilead series

Sapphire: A Celestial Twist Historical Fiction Julie Lilienkamp, 2013-11 Sapphire takes the reader on a journey through time from a bird's eye view This is a story based on true events of a family's emigration from North Dakota to New York to Joplin MO and Tulsa OK ending in the small mining town of Wallace Idaho Burke ID The novel is full of roller coaster events and emotion suspending the reader for a part II story and the history of Wallace Idaho Sapphire is a novel style inspired by renowned African American novelist Toni Morrison and her novels Love and Home Sapphire herself struggles with truth temptation and toil leaving the reader on a quest to find the narrator's voice Sapphire is a journey within a journey The setting is late Nineteenth Century to modern day This is the first of a two part collection true and historical events mashed with fiction Sapphire is a must read for the Twenty first Century Writing From the Left Alan M. Wald, 1994-11-17 In this collection of essays the author combines a series of assessments of classic and lost texts in the US Marxist literary tradition and analyzes developments in Marxist scholarship by Robin Kelley Michael Lowy James Murphy Paula Rabinowitz and Alexander Saxton A Commentary Upon the Historical Books of the Old Testament ... Simon Patrick, 1738 The Historical Novel in Nineteenth-Century Europe Brian Hamnett, 2011-11-24 Even at the height of its popularity in the early nineteenth century the historical novel faced criticism at many levels After its predominance in the 1810s and 1820s writers and historians shunned it as a travesty of their respective disciplines Even so the historical novel has frequently attracted a wide ranging public right up to the present day Brian Hamnett examines key novels by authors including Scott Balzac Manzoni Dickens Eliot Flaubert Fontane Gald's and Tolstoy revealing the contradictions inherent in this form of fiction and exposing the challenges writers faced in attempting to represent a reality that linked past and present He argues that the historical novel in the nineteenth century was a common European phenomenon with considerable interconnection of themes and periods Accordingly the book ranges from the British Isles and France through the Germanic territories Italy and Spain to the Russian Empire identifying the different objectives and phases of the historical novel Although historical novels did appear in the two previous centuries the form came to maturity in the nineteenth century a consequence of the developing nature of history as a discipline distinct from literature and philosophy and the increasing primacy of the novel for writers and the reading public Yet the frontiers between history and literature remained blurred and the two disciplines continued to influence one another as each sought a faithful representation of human experience Conflict and Colonialism in 21st Century Romantic Historical Fiction Hsu-Ming Teo, Paloma Fresno-Calleja, 2024-06-13 This book explores how postmillennial Anglophone women writers use romantic narrativisations of history to explore revise repurpose and challenge the past in their novels exposing the extent to which past societies were damaging to women by instead imagining alternative histories The novelists discussed employ the generic conventions of romance to narrate their understanding of historical and contemporary injustice and to reflect upon women s achievements and the price they paid for autonomy and a life of public purpose The volume seeks firstly to discuss the work of revision or reparation being performed by romantic historical fiction and secondly to analyse how the past is being repurposed for use in the present It contends that the discourses and genre of romance work to provide a reparative reading of the past but there are limitations and entrenched problems in such readings Catalogue of Books in the South End Branch Library of the Boston Public Library Boston Public Library.
