

An anatomical illustration of the human torso, showing the muscles and ribcage. The illustration is rendered in a realistic style with a color palette of reds, oranges, and yellows, set against a dark blue background. The muscles are shown in a detailed, layered manner, with some areas appearing more translucent to reveal underlying structures. The ribcage is visible on the right side, and the spine runs down the center. The overall composition is centered, with the text overlaid on the upper portion of the image.
