boundaries Beyond Utopia Agnes Nyilas,2018-05-25 Megastructure proposals by the Japanese Metabolism group are commonly identified with the concept of utopia Beyond this partial understanding Agnes Nyilas suggests that rather than being merely utopian the Megastructure of Metabolism represents a uniquely amalgam genre the myth camouflaged as utopia Although its Megastructure seemingly describes a desirable future condition as utopia does it also comprises certain cultural images rooted in the collective un conscious of Japanese people in accordance with the general interpretation of myth The primary narrative of Beyond Utopia thus follows the gradual unfolding of the myth like characteristics of its Megastructure Myth is dealt here as an interdisciplinary subject in line with contemporary myth theories After expounding the mechanism underlying the growing demand for a new myth in architecture the origin of the myth Part I discovers the formal characteristics of the Megastructure of Metabolism to give a hint of the real intention behind it Based on this Part II is a reexamination of their design methods which aims to clarify the function of the myth and to suggest the meaning behind it Finally Part III deals with the subject matter of the myth by disclosing the meaning unfolding in the story and suggests a new reading of Metabolism urban theory as an attempt to reconsider the traditional Japanese space concept Subnature David Gissen,2012-03-20 We are conditioned over time to regard environmental forces such as dust mud gas smoke debris weeds and insects as inimical to architecture Much of today s discussion about sustainable and green design revolves around efforts to clean or filter out these primitive elements While mostly the direct result of human habitation these subnatural forces are nothing new In fact our ability to manage these forces has long defined the limits of civilized life From its origins architecture has been engaged in both fighting and embracing these so called destructive forces In Subnature David Gissen author of our critically acclaimed Big and Green examines experimental work by today s leading designers scholars philosophers and biologists that rejects the idea that humans can somehow recreate a purely natural world free of the untidy elements that actually constitute nature Each chapter provides an examination of a particular form of subnature and its actualization in contemporary design practice The exhilarating and at times unsettling work featured in Subnature suggests an alternative view of natural processes and ecosystems and their relationships to human society and architecture R Sie n s Mosquito Bottleneck house in Trinidad uses a skin that actually attracts mosquitoes and moves them through the building while keeping them separate from the occupants In his building designs the architect Philippe Rahm draws the dank air from the earth and the gasses and moisture from our breath to define new forms of spatial experience In his Underground House Mollier House and Omnisport Hall Rahm forces us to consider the odor of soil and the emissions from our body as the natural context of a future architecture Cero 9 s design for the Magic Mountain captures excess heat emitted from a power generator in Ames Iowa to fuel a rose garden that embellishes the industrial site and creates a natural mountain rising above the city s skyline Subnature looks beyond LEED ratings green roofs and solar panels toward a progressive architecture based on a radical new conception of nature Encyclopedia of 20th Century Architecture R.
