Habitat Fragmentation And Landscape Change An Ecological And Conservation Synthesis:

Habitat Fragmentation and Landscape Change David B. Lindenmayer,Joern Fischer,2013-02-22 Habitat loss and degradation that comes as a result of human activity is the single biggest threat to biodiversity in the world today Habitat Fragmentation and Landscape Change is a groundbreaking work that brings together a wealth of information from a wide range of sources to define the ecological problems caused by landscape change and to highlight the relationships among landscape change habitat fragmentation and biodiversity conservation The book synthesizes a large body of information from the scientific literature considers key theoretical principles for examining and predicting effects examines the range of effects that can arise explores ways of mitigating impacts reviews approaches to studying the problem discusses knowledge gaps and future areas for research and management Habitat Fragmentation and Landscape Change offers a unique mix of theoretical and practical information outlining general principles and approaches and illustrating those principles with case studies from around the world It represents a definitive overview and synthesis on the full range of topics that fall under the widely used but often vaguely defined term habitat fragmentation

Habitat Fragmentation and Landscape Change David Lindenmayer,Joern Fischer,2006-01-01 This groundbreaking work brings together a wealth of information from a wide range of sources to define the ecological problems caused by landscape change and highlights the relationships among landscape change habitat fragmentation and biodiversity conversation

How Landscapes Change Gay A. Bradshaw,Pablo Marquet,2002-12-06 North and South America share similar human and ecological histories and increasingly economic and social linkages As such issues of ecosystem functions and disruptions form a common thread among these cultures This volume synthesizes the perspectives of several disciplines such as ecology anthropology economy and conservation biology The chief goal is to gain an understanding of how human and ecological processes interact to affect ecosystem functions and species in the Americas Throughout the text the emphasis is placed on habitat fragmentation At the same time the book provides an overview of current theory methods and approaches used in the analysis of ecosystem disruptions and fragmentation

Forest Landscapes and Global Change João C. Azevedo,Ajith H. Perera,M. Alice Pinto,2014-07-11 Climate change urban sprawl abandonment of agriculture intensification of forestry and agriculture changes in energy generation and use expansion of infrastructure networks habitat destruction and degradation and other drivers of change occur at increasing rates They affect patterns and processes in forest landscapes and modify ecosystem services derived from those ecosystems Consequently rapidly changing landscapes present many new challenges to scientists and managers While it is not uncommon to encounter the terms global change and landscape together in the ecological literature a global analyses of drivers of change in forest landscapes and their ecological consequences have not been addressed adequately That is the goal of this volume an exploration of the state of knowledge of global changes in forested landscapes with emphasis on causes and effects and challenges faced by researchers and land managers Initial chapters identify and describe major agents of landscape change climate fire and human activities The next series of chapters address implications of changes on ecosystem services biodiversity conservation and carbon flux A chapter that describes methodologies of detecting and monitoring landscape changes is presented followed by chapter that highlights the many challenges forest landscape managers face amidst of global change Finally we present a summary and a synthesis of the main points presented in the book Each chapter will contain the individual research experiences of chapter authors augmented by review and synthesis of global scientific literature on relevant topics as well as critical input from multiple peer reviewers Conservation

Biogeography Richard J. Ladle, Robert J. Whittaker, 2011-01-11 CONSERVATION BIOGEOGRAPHY The Earth's ecosystems are in the midst of an unprecedented period of change as a result of human action Many habitats have been completely destroyed or divided into tiny fragments others have been transformed through the introduction of new species or the extinction of native plants and animals while anthropogenic climate change now threatens to completely redraw the geographic map of life on this planet The urgent need to understand and prescribe solutions to this complicated and interlinked set of pressing conservation issues has lead to the transformation of the venerable academic discipline of biogeography the study of the geographic distribution of animals and plants The newly emerged sub discipline of conservation biogeography uses the conceptual tools and methods of biogeography to address real world conservation problems and to provide predictions about the fate of key species and ecosystems over the next century This book provides the first comprehensive review of the field in a series of closely interlinked chapters addressing the central issues within this exciting and important subject Creating A Sustainable And Desirable Future: Insights From 45 Global Thought

Leaders Robert Costanza, Ida Kubiszewski, 2014-03-14 The major challenge for the current generation of mankind is to develop a shared vision of a future that is both desirable to the vast majority of humanity and ecologically sustainable Creating a Sustainable and Desirable Future offers a broad critical discussion on what such a future should or can be with global perspectives written by some of the world's leading thinkers including Wendell Berry Van Jones Frances Moore Lappe Peggy Liu Hunter Lovins Gus Speth Bill McKibben and many more Patterns and Processes in Forest Landscapes Raffaele LaFortezza, Jiquan Chen, Giovanni Sanesi, Thomas R. Crow, 2008-08-30 Increasing evidence suggests that the composition and spatial configuration the pattern of forest landscapes affect many ecological processes including the movement and persistence of particular species the susceptibility and spread of disturbances such as fires or pest outbreaks and the redistribution of matter and nutrients Understanding these issues is key to the successful management of complex multifunctional forest landscapes and landscape ecology based on a foundation of island biogeography and meta population dynamic theories provides the rationale to deal with this pattern to process interaction at different spatial and temporal scales This carefully edited volume represents a stimulating addition to the international literature on landscape ecology and resource management It provides key insights into some of the applicable landscape ecological theories that underlie forest management with a specific focus on how forest management can benefit from landscape ecology and how landscape ecology can be advanced by tackling challenging problems in forest landscape management. It also presents a series of case studies from Europe, Asia, North America, Africa, and Australia exploring the issues of disturbance, diversity, management, and scale, and with a specific focus on how human intervention affects forest landscapes and in turn how landscapes influence humans and their culture. An important reference for advanced students and researchers in landscape ecology, conservation biology, forest ecology, natural resource management, and ecology across multiple scales, the book will also appeal to researchers and practitioners in reserve design, ecological restoration, forest management, landscape planning, and landscape architecture.

Environmental Decision-Making in Context Chad J. McGuire, 2017-09-25. Because of the complexity involved in understanding the environment, the choices made about environmental issues are often incomplete. In a perfect world, those who make environmental decisions would be armed with a foundation about the broad range of issues at stake when making such decisions. Offering a simple but comprehensive understanding of the critical roles science, economics, and values play in making informed environmental decisions, Environmental Decision Making in Context: A Toolbox provides that foundation. The author highlights a primary set of intellectual tools from different disciplines and places them into an environmental context through the use of case study examples. The case studies are designed to stimulate the analytical reasoning required to employ environmental decision making and ultimately help in establishing a framework for pursuing and solving environmental questions, issues, and problems. They create a framework individuals from various backgrounds can use to both identify and analyze environmental issues in the context of everyday environmental problems. The book strikes a balance between being a tightly bound academic text and a loosely defined set of principles. It takes you beyond the traditional pillars of academic discipline to supply an understanding of the fundamental aspects of what is actually involved in making environmental decisions and building a set of skills for making those decisions.

Bird versus Bulldozer Audrey Mayer, 2021-03-09. An examination of the struggle to conserve biodiversity in urban regions told through the story of the threatened coastal California gnatcatcher. The story of the rare coastal California gnatcatcher is a parable for understanding the larger ongoing struggle to conserve biodiversity in regions confronted with intensifying urban development. Because this gnatcatcher depends on vanishing coastal sage scrub in Southern California, it has been regarded as a flagship species for biodiversity protection since the early 1990s. But the uncertainty of the gnatcatcher's taxonomic classification and whether it can be counted as a listable unit under the Endangered Species Act has provoked contentious debate among activists, scientists, urban developers, and policy makers. Synthesizing insights from ecology, environmental history, public policy analysis, and urban planning as she tracks these debates over the course of the past twenty-five years, Audrey L. Mayer presents an ultimately optimistic take on the importance of much neglected regional conservation planning strategies to create sustainable urban landscapes that benefit humans and wildlife alike.

Sodhi, Paul R. Ehrlich, 2010-01-07 Conservation Biology for All provides cutting edge but basic conservation science to a global readership A series of authoritative chapters have been written by the top names in conservation biology with the principal aim of disseminating cutting edge conservation knowledge as widely as possible Important topics such as balancing conservation and human needs climate change conservation planning designing and analyzing conservation research ecosystem services endangered species management extinctions fire habitat loss and invasive species are covered Numerous textboxes describing additional relevant material or case studies are also included The global biodiversity crisis is now unstoppable what can be saved in the developing world will require an educated constituency in both the developing and developed world Habitat loss is particularly acute in developing countries which is of special concern because it tends to be these locations where the greatest species diversity and richest centres of endemism are to be found Sadly developing world conservation scientists have found it difficult to access an authoritative textbook which is particularly ironic since it is these countries where the potential benefits of knowledge application are greatest There is now an urgent need to educate the next generation of scientists in developing countries so that they are in a better position to protect their natural resources

Filippucci,2019-01-05 This book explores the relationship between the sciences of representation and the strategy of landscape valorisation The topic is connected to the theme of the image of the city which is extended to the territory scale and applied to case studies in Italy s Umbria region where the goal is to strike a dynamic balance between cultural heritage and nature The studies demonstrate how landscape represents an interpretive process of finding meaning a product of the relationships between mankind and the places in which it lives The work proceeds from the assumption that it is possible to describe these connections between environment territory and landscape by applying the Vitruvian triad composed of Firmitas solidity Utilitas utility and Venustas beauty The environment the sum of the conditions that influence all life represents the place s solidity because it guarantees its survival In turn territory is connected to utility and through its etymological meaning is linked to possession to a domain while landscape as an area perceived by people expresses the search for beauty in a given place the process of critically interpreting a vision Mountain Resorts Julia

LeMense,2016-04-22 Mountains are the home of significant ecological resources wildlife habitat higher elevation plant systems steep slopes delicate soils and water systems These resources are subject to very visible and growing pressures most of which are caused by the unique features of mountains Using as case studies four mountain resorts in the US and Canada this book analyzes the extent to which the law protects the ecological systems of mountains from the adverse impacts associated with the development operation and expansion of resorts In order to examine these issues Mountain Resorts takes an interdisciplinary approach with contributions from ecologists and lawyers who focus on ski related activities increasing four season use of the mountains and expanding residential commercial and recreational development at the mountains base Its analysis of an array of US and Canadian federal state and local laws provides a multifaceted exploration of the intersection of ecology and the law at mountain resorts Managing and Designing Landscapes for Conservation David B.

Lindenmayer,Richard J. Hobbs,2008-04-15 The distinctive relationships between landscape change habitat fragmentation and biodiversity conservation are highlighted in this original and useful guide to the theory and practice of ecological landscape design Using original ecologically based landscape design principles the text underscores current thinking in landscape management and conservation It offers a blend of theoretical and practical information that is illustrated with case studies drawn from across the globe Key insights by some of the world s leading experts in landscape ecology and conservation biology make Managing and Designing Landscapes for Conservation an essential volume for anyone involved in landscape management natural resource planning or biodiversity conservation Ecology and Conservation of Forest Birds

Fuller, 2018-03-29 Ecology and Conservation of Forest Birds is a unique review of current understanding of the relationships between forest birds and their changing environments Large ecological changes are being driven by forest management climate change introduced pests and pathogens abiotic disturbances and overbrowsing Many forest bird species have suffered population declines with the situation being particularly severe for birds dependent on attributes such as dead wood old trees and structurally complex forests With a focus on the non tropical parts of the Northern Hemisphere the text addresses the fundamental evolutionary and ecological aspects of forest birds using original data analyses and synthesising reviews The characteristics of bird assemblages and their habitats in different European forest types are explored together with the macroecological patterns of bird diversity and conservation issues The book provides a valuable reference for ecologists ornithologists conservation professionals forest industry employees and those interested in birds and nature

Global Forest Fragmentation Chris J Kettle, Lian Pin Koh, 2014-09-12 Forest fragmentation will inevitably continue over the coming years especially in developing economies This book provides a cutting edge review of the multi disciplinary sciences related to studies of global forest fragmentation It specifically addresses cross cutting themes from both an ecological and a social sciences perspective The ultimate goal of Global Forest Fragmentation is to provide a detailed scientific base to support future forest landscape management and planning to meet global environmental and societal needs
