When Politics Comes Before Patients Shawn Whatley, MD, 2020-11-18 How Successive Governments Have Weakened the Foundation of All Canadian s Social and Economic Security At some point you will find yourself lying in a hospital bed There is a good chance that your bed will be a firm rubber pad held secure between two rails and parked along a corridor in a busy emergency department Moans of Nurse will echo from the beds ahead of you in line Those pleas will fall largely on deaf ears Your hospital is underfunded and understaffed Welcome to the current reality of Medicare in the 21st century Using searing analogies and first hand accounts Dr Whatley makes the argument that the current Medicare system is unsustainable and unless critical choices and changes are made soon the publicly funded single payer system in Canada will implode Successive governments regardless of political stripe know all too well that Canada s system of health care is one of the defining characteristics of being a Canadian and any changes deemed harmful will have them thrown out of power Thus decades of cuts around the margins centralized control federal provincial infighting and government oversight has left doctors and hospitals with little input on how your health dollars are allocated and spent Citizens are being left to languish in pain for months sometimes years because the current cost and delivery system is programmed for the benefit of governments staying in power That was not what was intended Medicare should be about delivering high quality and timely healthcare value for Canadians This is not an easy fix Treatment starts with a serious look at the disease and Dr Whatley pulls no punches But what sounds like a radical new approach is neither new nor radical He is not arguing for the end of Medicare per se but is making the case to let medical professionals those providing the services become equal partners in its design implementation and delivery

necessarily determine a policy outcome Ideas and the Pace of Change Katherine Boothe, 2015-03-27 Canada is the only OECD country that has universal comprehensive public hospital and medical insurance but lacks equivalent pharmaceutical coverage In Ideas and the Pace of Change Katherine Boothe explains the reasons for this unique situation Using archival interview and polling data Boothe compares the policy histories of Canada the United Kingdom and Australia in order to understand why Canada followed a different path on pharmaceutical insurance Boothe argues that pace matters in policy change Quick radical change requires centralized political institutions an elite consensus and an engaged attentive electorate Without these prerequisites states are far more likely to take a slower incremental approach But while rapid policy change reinforces the new consensus incremental progress strengthens the status quo letting development stall and raising the bar for achieving change An important contribution to the study of comparative political economy Ideas and the Pace of Change should be required reading for anyone seeking to understand why health care reforms succeed or fail Vulnerable Colleen M.
