Physical Activity and Rehabilitation in Life-threatening Illness Amy Litterini, Christopher Wilson, 2021-05-04 This book is a comprehensive summary of the recommendations for best practice and current evidence for physical activity and rehabilitation of functional deficits in individuals with end stage diseases While advances in technology have afforded us the opportunity to live longer lives it has also demanded an expansion of focus of medical interventions towards palliative care to enhance the quality of life Exercise and healthcare professionals must strive to broaden their perspectives to provide for the unique needs of these individuals and to successfully engage with them to achieve the most positive outcomes throughout the entire continuum of care Healthcare providers play a critical role in advocating for care to allow individuals to remain physically active for as long as possible even in the face of declining health Finally due to the

increasing and progressively emergent healthcare utilization required by these individuals a significant cost burden is experienced by healthcare systems patients families and payers There is evidence of substantial protective effects of physical activity prevention safety and rehabilitative procedures to reduce hospital readmissions reduce length of stay and assist in avoiding unwarranted or unnecessary diagnostic tests or procedures Physical activity has been proven to have a substantial impact and protective effects on virtually all medical conditions During curative management but especially during transitional phases to palliative care other strategies need enhanced consideration to complement the existing plan of care and help to improve patient s quality of life Ideally physical medicine would be at the forefront of allowing individuals to live their best life until the very end Physical Activity and Rehabilitation in Life threatening Illness is key reading for academics and policy makers in physical activity international exercise wellness and rehabilitation and related disciplines as well as research focused clinicians in settings where patients with advanced illness are frequently encountered Evidence-Based Practice for Nurses Schmidt, Janet Marie Brown, 2017-12-06 Evidence Based Practice for Nurses Appraisal and Application of Research Fourth Edition is the definitive reference for transitioning research into nursing practice The text is based on the innovation decision process IDP and is shaped according to the five steps of the IDP knowledge persuasion decision implementation and confirmation Current Index to Journals in Education , 1999-07 Documentation Abstracts , 1998 Resources in Education , 1995 Consumer-Driven Technologies in Healthcare: Breakthroughs in Research and Practice Management Association, Information Resources, 2018-07-06 The world of medical technologies is undergoing a sea change in the domain of consumer culture Having a grasp on what appeals to consumers and how consumers are making purchasing decisions is essential to the success of any organization that thrives by offering a product or service As such it is vital to examine the consumer centered aspects of medical technological developments that have a patient centered focus and allow patients to take part in their own personal health and wellness Consumer Driven Technologies in Healthcare Breakthroughs in Research and Practice is a critical source of academic knowledge on the use of smartphones and other technological devices for cancer therapy fitness and wellness chronic disease monitoring and other areas The tracking of these items using technology has allowed consumers to take control of their own healthcare Highlighting a range of pertinent topics such as clinical decision support systems patient engagement and electronic health records this publication is an ideal reference source for doctors nurse practitioners hospital administrators medical professionals IT professionals academicians and researchers interested in advancing medical practice through technology Health Literacy and Consumer-Facing Technology National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Institute of Medicine, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Roundtable on Health Literacy, 2015-10-21 The proliferation of consumer facing technology and personal health information technology has grown steadily over the past decade and has certainly exploded over the past several years Many people have embraced smartphones and wearable health monitoring devices to track their fitness and personal health information Providers have made it easier for patients and caregivers to access health records and communicate through online patient portals However the large volume of health related information that these devices can generate and input into a health record can also lead to an increased amount of confusion on the part of users and caregivers The Institute of Medicine convened a workshop to explore health literate practices in health information technology and then provide and consider the ramifications of this rapidly growing field on the health literacy of users Health Literacy and Consumer Facing Technology summarizes the discussions and presentations from this workshop highlighting the lessons presented practical strategies and the needs and opportunities for improving health literacy in consumer facing technology

Health Literacy, eHealth, and Communication Institute of Medicine, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Roundtable on Health Literacy, 2009-04-24 There is great enthusiasm over the use of emerging interactive health information technologies often referred to as eHealth and the potential these technologies have to improve the quality capacity and efficiency of the health care system However many doctors advocacy groups policy makers and consumers are concerned that electronic health systems might help individuals and communities with greater resources while leaving behind those with limited access to technology In order to address this problem the Institute of Medicine's Roundtable on Health Literacy held a workshop to explore the current status of communication technology the challenges for its use in populations with low health literacy and the strategies for increasing the benefit of these technologies for populations with low health literacy The summary of the workshop Health Literacy eHealth and Communication Putting the Consumer First includes participants comments on these issues

Consumer Health Informatics Catherine Arnott Smith, Alla Keselman, 2020-12-13 An engaging introduction to an exciting multidisciplinary field where positive impact depends less on technology than on understanding and responding to human motivations specific information needs and life constraints Betsy L Humphreys former Deputy Director National Library of Medicine This is a book for people who want to design or promote information technology that helps people be more active and informed participants in their healthcare Topics include patient portals wearable devices apps websites smart homes and online communities focused on health Consumer Healthcare Informatics Enabling Digital Health for Everyone educates readers in the core concepts of consumer health informatics participatory healthcare health and e health literacy user centered design information retrieval and trusted information resources and the ethical dimensions of health information and communication technologies It presents the current state of knowledge and recent developments in the field of consumer health informatics The discussions address tailoring information to key user groups including patients consumers caregivers parents children and young adults and older adults For example apps are considered as not just a rich consumer technology with the promise of empowered personal data management and connectedness to community and healthcare providers but also a domain rife with concerns for effectiveness privacy and security requiring both designer and user to engage in critical thinking around their choices This book's unique contribution to the field is its focus on the consumer and patient in the context of their everyday life outside the clinical setting Discussion of tools and technologies is grounded in this perspective and in a context of real world use and its implications for design

There is an emphasis on empowerment through participatory and people centered care
