Excerpt from Health Security Act of 1993 Hearing Before the Committee on Post Office and Civil Service House of Representatives One Hundred Third Congress First Session November 9 and 18 1993 The committee met pursuant to call at 1 p m in room 311 Cannon House Office Building Hon William L Clay chairman of the committee presiding Members present Representatives Clay McCloskey Ackerman Sawyer Norton Bishop Hastings Myers and Morelia Mr Clay The committee will come to order This afternoon the committee begins its consideration of the Health Security Act of 1993 President Clinton s bill to reform the Nation s health care system At the outset let me commend President and Mrs Clinton for their tireless efforts both in developing the massive proposal and in focusing the Nation s and the Congress attention on the need for health care reform The President is absolutely right when he says that the goal of health care reform should be to guarantee to every citizen universal access to high quality affordable and comprehensive health care services On this important issue and many others there is consensus today where none existed before For these reasons I have agreed to stand with the President as an original cosponsor of his bill I of course still have my disagreements with the President on the means and I have serious doubts about some of his objectives which brings me to the subject of today s hearing I have very grave concerns with the President s proposal to enroll Federal employees and retirees in 1998 in the State regional health alliances and to abolish the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program FEHBP FEHBP is a generally well run program that serves nearly 9 million Federal employees retirees and dependents It has been an important employee benefit for over 30 years In recent years it has compiled an impressive record in controlling costs And it is frequently cited by the administration and others as a model of managed competition I do not believe the Congress should abolish a program that not only works well but works well for so many people unless we make sure it s in the best interests of Federal employees and retirees About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the

The Tides of Reform Paul Charles Light, 1997-01-01 During the past fifty years the Congresses and presidents of the United States have made many efforts to improve the performance of the federal government In this book a leading expert in public management examines the most important reform statutes passed and concludes that the problem is not too little reform but too much Paul Light explains that Congress and the presidency have never decided whether they trust government and its employees to do their jobs well and so they have moved back and forth over the decades between four reform philosophies scientific management war on waste watchful eye and liberation management These four philosophies argues Light operate with different goals implementation strategies and impacts Yet reform initiatives draw on one or another of them almost at random often canceling out the potential benefits of a particular statute by passing a contradictory statute soon afterward Light shows that as the public has become increasingly distrustful of government the reform agenda has favored the war on waste and watchful eye He analyzes the consequences of these changes for the overall performance of government and offers policy recommendations for future reform approaches Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1996

Health Care for Some Beatrix Hoffman, 2012-09-15 The 2010 Affordable Care Act is a sweeping reform to the US health care system Hoffman offers an engaging and in depth look at America's long tradition of unequal access to health care She argues that two main features have characterized the US health system a refusal to adopt a right to care and a particularly American type of rationing Unlike rationing in most countries which is intended to keep costs down rationing in the United States has actually led to increased costs resulting in the most expensive health care system in the world America Inc.? Linda Weiss, 2014-03-29 For more than half a century the United States has led the world in developing major technologies that drive the modern economy and underpin its prosperity In America Inc Linda Weiss attributes the US capacity for transformative innovation to the strength of its national security state a complex of agencies programs and hybrid arrangements that has developed around the institution of permanent defense preparedness and the pursuit of technological supremacy She examines how that complex emerged and how it has evolved in response to changing geopolitical threats and domestic political constraints from the Cold War period to the post 9 11 era Weiss focuses on state funded venture capital funds new forms of technology procurement by defense and security related agencies and innovation in robotics nanotechnology and renewable energy since the 1980s Weiss argues that the national security state has been the crucible for breakthrough innovations a catalyst for entrepreneurship and the formation of new firms and a collaborative network coordinator for private sector initiatives Her book appraises persistent myths about the military commercial relationship at the core of the National Security State Weiss also discusses the implications for understanding U S capitalism the American state and the future of American primacy as financialized corporations curtail investment in manufacturing and innovation
