

Healthy Living Centres

a guide to primary health care design

Geoffrey Purves

Healthy Living Centres explores the process of designing buildings for primary health care. With the message that good design means healthy living, Geoffrey Purves shows the beneficial effects that a good brief can bring to the staff, patients and visitors of health care facilities – and gives a practical guide to achieving this.

After reviewing the historical approach to primary health care and outlining key current and projected developments the book goes on to reveal the matrix of relationships that influence the design of the new generation of frontline medical practices – the Healthy Living Centres themselves. Purves sets new standards and procedures for uncovering and resolving the inherent conflicts of the design process, and shows how investment in effective architecture can be more beneficial to all users. International case studies including examples from the UK, US, Japan and South Africa provide technical detail and show what good design can achieve.

Geoffrey Purves is a chartered architect and an Honorary Research Associate at Durham University in the Centre for Arts and Humanities in Health and Medicine (CAHHM). He is also senior partner of Geoffrey Purves Partnership which has designed over 50 primary health care projects and has recently celebrated 25 years in business.

Healthy Living Centres A Guide To Primary Health Care Design:

Healthy Living Centres Geoffrey Purves, 2007-06-01 By exploring the design process this book looks at the relationship between the architectural and medical professions to see how the next wave of Government health policies can be best provided for The aim is to raise the quality of health buildings in the primary care sector Greater flexibility will be required as the medical profession moves towards a pro active attitude to Healthy Living Centres rather than the traditional reactive treatment to cure disease This is a hands on how to do it guide to satisfy changing policy objectives offering an up to date methodology to encourage a holistic approach to health care buildings which will be of interest to both architectural and medical professionals Ecological and Salutogenic Design for a Sustainable Healthy Global Society Ken Yeang, Alan Dilani, 2022-02-22 This volume brings together several leading scientists and practitioners from around the world to discuss the ecological and salutogenic design principles for creating a healthy built environment These principles and applications are the most important scientific topic of health promotion that provides the context for a healthy lifestyle The challenge for ecological design is to provide a green context for a healthy society dealing with built infrastructure that creates clean air clean water clean food and clean land which in turn are necessary for human health and wellbeing In this book these principles are intertwined with those of salutogenic design which support human health globally Primary Care Centres Geoffrey Purves, 2009-10-26 Primary Care Centres explores the process of planning and designing buildings for frontline medical practice Taking as a starting point the concept that good design contributes directly to healthy living the book shows beneficial effects that a good design brief can bring to the staff patients and visitors of health care facilities It outlines principles for designs that are both practical and useful International case studies of healthcare facilities in the UK US Japan and South Africa provide technical detail and give best practice examples of well designed healthy living centres with an emphasis on building performance and catering for the latest government policy developments This new edition provides trusted guidance on investing in effective architecture for architects and project managers involved in the design of healthcare facilities Dr Geoffrey Purves is Chairman of Purves Ash LLP a firm of Architects in Newcastle upon Tyne He has held a range of professional appointments with the Royal Institute of British Architects and is an Honorary Research Associate at Durham University Metric Handbook David Littlefield, 2012-09-10 Fully updated in reference to the latest construction standards and new building types Sustainable design fully integrated into each chapter Over 100 000 copies sold to successive generations of architects and designers this book truly belongs on every design office desk and drawing board The Metric Handbook is the major handbook of planning and design data for architects and architecture students Covering basic design data for all the major building types it is the ideal starting point for any project For each building type the book gives the basic design requirements and all the principal dimensional data and succinct guidance on how to use the information and what regulations the designer needs to be aware of As well as buildings the Metric Handbook deals with broader aspects of design such as materials acoustics and lighting and general design data on human dimensions and space requirements The Metric Handbook really is the unique reference for solving everyday planning problems About the Author David Littlefield is a senior lecturer at the University of the West of England where he teaches in the department of planning and architecture For many years he worked as a writer and journalist David has written co written or edited over ten books on architecture Customer reviews This book is a great investment as you will use it throughout your career as an architect I have found that this book is the Bible for all planners contains so much information that no designer or planner should be without a copy An essential reference book that should be on the shelf in any design studio Metric Handbook Pamela Buxton,2015-03-05 Significantly updated in reference to the latest construction standards and evolving building types Many chapters revised including housing transport offices libraries and hotels New chapter on flood aware design Sustainable design integrated into chapters throughout Over 100 000 copies sold to successive generations of architects and designers this book belongs in every design studio and architecture school library The Metric Handbook is the major handbook of planning and design information for architects and architecture students Covering basic design data for all the major building types it is the ideal starting point for any project For each building type the book gives the basic design requirements and all the principal dimensional data and succinct guidance on how to use the information and what regulations the designer needs to be aware of As well as building types the Metric Handbook deals with broader aspects of design such as materials acoustics and lighting and general design data on human dimensions and space requirements The Metric Handbook provides an invaluable resource for solving everyday design and planning problems Primary Care Centres Geoffrey Purves,2009 Primary Care Centres explores the process of planning and designing buildings for frontline medical practice Taking as a starting point the concept that good design contributes directly to healthy living the book shows beneficial effects that a good design brief can bring to the staff patients and visitors of health care facilities It outlines principles for designs that are both practical and useful International case studies of healthcare facilities in the UK US Japan and South Africa provide technical detail and give best practice examples of well designed healthy living centres with an emphasis on building performance and catering for the latest government policy developments This new edition provides trusted guidance on investing in effective architecture for architects and project managers involved in the design of healthcare facilities Dr Geoffrey Purves is Chairman of Purves Ash LLP a firm of Architects in Newcastle upon Tyne He has held a range of professional appointments with the Royal Institute of British Architects and is an Honorary Research Associate at Durham University Constructing Professional Discourse Concepción Orna-Montesinos,2012-01-17 This book explores the fascinating role that language plays in the construction of non verbal objects by mapping out the ontological meaning of the specialised concepts and the domain specific knowledge embedded in them In doing so it provides a comprehensive linguistic insight into the discourse of professional domain specific communities and hence into the communication practices and procedures of those communities In this respect the book offers a response to the claims made by many of the most influential applied linguists today such as Vijay Bhatia 1993 2004 John Swales 1990 2004 or Ken Hyland 2002 among others who have consistently defended the need for applied linguistic research into the textual generic and social perspectives on the under researched interrelatedness of the discursal and professional practices of a discipline Specifically this book provides readers with an integrative multi perspective approach to the study of professional domain specific discourses While it mainly draws on the tenets of genre theory and discourse semantics it also nurtures from the theoretical and empirical foundations of applied linguistics cognitive linguistics corpus linguistics and ontological engineering The book starts from the analysis of domain specific texts as final written products with specific lexico grammatical semantic and rhetorical features to later enquire into the written products as textual artefacts closely linked to the social context of production and interpretation of the text This integrative approach provides fresh new insights into the way the processes of writing are affected by the community specific institutional and socio historical circumstances in which domain specific texts are produced
