The American Psychiatric Association Practice Guidelines for the Psychiatric Evaluation of Adults, Third Edition American Psychiatric Association, 2015-07-29 Since the publication of the Institute of Medicine IOM report Clinical Practice Guidelines We Can Trust in 2011 there has been an increasing emphasis on assuring that clinical practice guidelines are trustworthy developed in a transparent fashion and based on a systematic review of the available research evidence To align with the IOM recommendations and to meet the new requirements for inclusion of a guideline in the National Guidelines Clearinghouse of the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality AHRQ American Psychiatric Association APA has adopted a new process for practice guideline development Under this new process APA's practice guidelines also seek to provide better clinical utility and usability Rather than a broad overview of treatment for a disorder new practice guidelines focus on a set of discrete clinical questions of relevance to an overarching subject area A systematic review of evidence is conducted to address these clinical questions and involves a detailed assessment of individual studies The quality of the overall body of evidence is also rated and is summarized in the practice guideline With the new process recommendations are determined by weighing potential benefits and harms of an intervention in a specific clinical context Clear concise and actionable recommendation statements help clinicians to incorporate recommendations into clinical practice with the goal of improving quality of care The new practice guideline format is also designed to be more user friendly by dividing information into modules on specific clinical questions Each module has a consistent organization which will assist users in finding clinically useful and relevant information quickly and easily This new edition of the practice guidelines on psychiatric evaluation for adults is the first set of the APA's guidelines developed under the new guideline development process These guidelines address the following nine topics in the context of an initial psychiatric evaluation review of psychiatric symptoms trauma history and treatment history substance use assessment assessment of suicide risk assessment for risk of aggressive behaviors assessment of cultural factors assessment of medical health quantitative assessment involvement of the patient in treatment decision making and documentation of the psychiatric evaluation Each guideline recommends or suggests topics to include during an initial psychiatric evaluation Findings from an expert opinion survey have also been taken into consideration in making recommendations or suggestions In addition to reviewing the available evidence on psychiatry evaluation each guideline also provides guidance to clinicians on implementing these recommendations to enhance patient care

The American Psychiatric Association Practice Guideline for the Prevention and Treatment of Delirium American Psychiatric Association, 2025-09-04 Prevalence rates of delirium range widely depending on patient population and treatment setting Information on rates of delirium in community settings is limited but in emergency and hospital settings one quarter or more of the patients will experience delirium Rates can be even higher in older individuals critical care patients and patients who have had major orthopedic or cardiovascular surgeries Prevention early detection and optimal treatment are critical because delirium is often unrecognized and is associated with increased morbidity and mortality. For example, postsurgical delirium has been reported to have a 30-day mortality rate of up to 10% versus 1% in postsurgical patients without delirium. Additionally, delirium exacts a significant economic toll on individuals, their families, and society because of longer hospital stays, ICU admissions, rehospitalizations, and lost wages. In the United States, direct health care costs of hospitalized older adults with delirium are significantly higher than hospitalized patients without delirium, even after adjusting for demographic and clinical factors. The American Psychiatric Association Practice Guideline for the Prevention and Treatment of Delirium reviews current evidence-based nonpharmacological and pharmacological interventions to prevent or treat delirium in adults. In addition, it includes statements related to assessment and treatment planning, which are an integral part of patient-centered care. The guideline describes approaches to implementing recommendations and suggestions in clinical practice. By providing up-to-date knowledge, the guideline aims to help clinicians feel more confident in preventing, recognizing, and treating delirium, thereby improving the care and well-being of their patients. Evidence tables, literature search results, clinical questions, and more for this guideline can be found in the online appendixes.
