Geospatial Technologies and Homeland Security Daniel Sui, 2008-05-25 Homeland security and context In the Geographical Dimensions of Terrorism GDOT Cutter et al 2003 the first book after 9 11 to address homeland security and geography we developed several thematic research agendas and explored intersections between geographic research and the importance of context both geographical and political in relationship to the concepts of terrorism and security It is good to see that a great deal of new thought and research continues to flow from that initial research agenda as illustrated by many of the papers of this new book entitled Geospatial Technologies and Homeland Security Research Frontiers and Future Challenges Context is relevant not only to understanding homeland security issues broadly but also to the conduct of research on geospatial technologies It is impossible to understand the implications of a homeland security strategy let alone hope to make predictions conduct meaningful modeling and research or assess the value and dangers of geospatial technologies without consideration of overarching political social economic and geographic contexts within which these questions are posed
