Senapati, 2016-09-09 The early years of 1990s economic reform and change has neglected social sectors both in India and Central Asia As a result poverty has also increased in India and Central Asian countries The economic political and social situation has worsened in all Central Asian states due to transition from command economy to market economy The early 1990s political decision has been dominated by a narrowly conceived version of economic policy for both India and Central Asia As a result the quality and the structure of social protection changed in a negative way Indeed in some cases the pursuit of a strict economic orthodoxy has left various sections of the community marginalized and alienated Both the societies confront a number of challenges that is as profound as the economic changes of the past The process of globalization and technical change has influenced economy and society in complex ways including raising expectations of consumption and remuneration for skilled knowledge workers creating greater demand for some information skills and services causing unemployment amongst those with few qualifications and destabilizing some traditional ways of life and increasing social exclusion It detaches groups and individuals from social relations and institutions and prevents them from full participation in the normal activities of the society In India and Central Asia communities face social exclusion on the basis of their identity as ethnic groups socio economic groups religious community and gender Inclusive development therefore is essential and it should be the top priority in development programs of India and Central Asia Research in this area has not been touched upon so far Since Central Asian countries are relatively new and trying to establish their democratic institutions this piece of work will be helpful for their nation building processes So far as the mutual benefit for both the regions is concerned India is an old democracy and its inclusive policy can be lessons for Central Asian countries On the other hand the experience of Central Asias policy implementation can be a lesson for India This piece of work has potential impulses to policy makers academicians and researchers of these five Central Asian countries and India This work can make a distinction than the conventional researcher in India by focusing on development studies social exclusion inclusive policies and comparative studies in international developments Key words social exclusion poverty deprivation development diversity India Central Asia Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan Stigma and Social Exclusion in Healthcare Caroline Carlisle,Tom Mason,Caroline Watkins,Elizabeth Whitehead,2005-08-19 Whilst those in healthcare might like to think that they work to reduce stigma and social exclusion of others this book reveals many strategies by which healthcare professionals contribute to increasing these conditions Written by practitioners some of whom have themselves been stigmatised the book exposes the hidden processes of prejudice and the dogma of ideology that permeate contemporary healthcare Engaging with the realities of stigma through a grassroots approach topics covered include hearing sight sexuality HIV and AIDS drug use teenage pregnancy breastfeeding old age Stigma and Social Exclusion in Healthcare provides practical solutions to problems recommendations for training and a blueprint for the future It will prove a valuable reference for all those wanting to deal with the issues of stigmatisation Digital health equity Karen Fortuna,Adrian Aguilera,Terika McCall,Joanne Nicholson,2023-05-29 Social Work Practice in Mental Health Robert Bland,Ann Tullgren,2020-07-16 An invaluable resource for social workers in all practice settings not just mental health and a core text for social work students Dr Valerie Gerrand former AASW representative and board member of the Mental Health Council of Australia An outstanding and very original contribution to the scholarship on mental health policy research and service Associate Professor Maria Harries AM University of Western Australia Developing the skills to work effectively with people who have mental health problems is fundamental to contemporary social work practice Practitioners face new challenges in a rapidly changing work environment including working with consumers and their families and in multidisciplinary teams Now more than ever social workers need discipline specific mental health knowledge and training This second edition of Social Work Practice in Mental Health continues the guiding principles of the first edition an emphasis on the centrality of the lived experience of mental illness and the importance of embracing both scientific and relational dimensions of practice The new edition reflects the latest developments in best practice including the emergence of recovery theory and the importance of evidence based approaches This is a comprehensive guide to social work practice in specialist mental health settings as well as in other fields of practice covering the most commonly encountered mental health problems It features information on assessment case management family work and community work and reveals how the core concerns of social work human rights self determination and relationships with family and the wider community are also central to mental health practice Homelessness, Social Exclusion and Health Fiona Cuthill,2019-11-01 For those wishing to understand issues of homelessness social exclusion and health at a local level by framing these issues in a global context It expands notions of health by drawing on disciplines outside the fields of housing and health to better comprehend the ways that stigma identity and urban geographies shape and present homelessness Circles of Exclusion Dani Filc, 2011-03-15 In its early years Israel's dominant ideology led to public provision of health care for all Jewish citizens regardless of their age income or ability to pay However the system has shifted in recent decades becoming increasingly privatized and market based In a familiar paradox the wealthy the young and the healthy have relatively easy access to health care and the poor the old and the very sick confront increasing obstacles to medical treatment In Circles of Exclusion Dani Filc both a physician and a human rights activist forcefully argues that in present day Israel equal access to health care is constantly and systematically thwarted by a regime that does not extend an equal level of commitment to the well being of all residents of Israel whether Jewish Israeli Palestinians migrant workers or Palestinians in the Occupied Territories Filc explores how Israel's adoption of a neoliberal model has pushed the system in a direction that gives priority to the strongest and richest individuals and groups over the needs of society as a whole and to profit and competition over care Filc pays special attention to the repercussions of policies that define citizenship in a way that has serious consequences for the health of groups of Palestinians who are Israeli citizens particularly the Bedouins in the unrecognized villages and to the ways in which this structure of citizenship affects the health of migrant workers The health care situation is even more dire in the Occupied Territories where the Occupation especially in the last two decades has negatively affected access to medical care and the health of Palestinians Filc concludes his book with a discussion of how human rights public health and economic imperatives can be combined to produce a truly equal health care system that provides high quality services to all Israelis Social Exclusion in Later Life of social exclusion has been at the forefront of New Labour's social policy since 1997. However, there is ambiguity about what the notion of social exclusion actually encompasses, caused in part by the limited extent of attempts to measure and understand social exclusion empirically. This key work addresses this problem, employing data from a nationally representative survey of British households to quantify levels of social exclusion and the composition of the socially excluded population. It also incorporates data from a European Commission funded household survey to compare social exclusion in Great Britain with eleven other countries in the European Union. In the book, Matt Barnes argues that social exclusion refers to enduring disadvantage on a wide range of living standards, not just those that reflect economic values. As well as looking at standard measures of poverty, he looks at more relational measures of disadvantage such as neighbourhood discontent and social isolation in order to determine exclusion from the economic, social and cultural systems that determine the integration of a person in society.
