Transnational Reproduction Daisy Deomampo, 2016-09-27 Transnational Reproduction traces the relationships among Western aspiring parents Indian surrogates and egg donors from around the world In the early 2010s India was one of the top providers of surrogacy services in the world Drawing on interviews with commissioning parents surrogates and egg donors as well as doctors and family members Daisy Deomampo argues that while the surrogacy industry in India offers a clear example of stratified reproduction the ways in which political economic and social forces structure the conditions under which women carry out physical and social reproductive labor it also complicates that concept as the various actors in this reproductive work struggle to understand their relationships to one another The book shows how these actors make sense of their connections illuminating the ways in which kinship ties are challenged transformed or reinforced in the context of transnational gestational surrogacy The volume revisits the concept of stratified reproduction in ways that offer a more robust and nuanced understanding of race and power as ideas about kinship intersect with structures of inequality It demonstrates that while reproductive actors share a common quest for conception they make sense of family in the context of globalized assisted reproductive technologies in very different ways In doing so Deomampo uncovers the specific racial reproductive imaginaries that underpin the unequal relations at the heart of transnational surrogacy

The Proteus Effect Ann B. Parson, 2004-10-02 Stem cells could be the key that unlocks cures to scores of diseases and illnesses Their story is at once compelling controversial and remarkable Part detective story part medical history The Proteus Effect recounts the events leading up to the discovery of stem cells and their incredible potential for the future of medicine What exactly are these biological wonders these things called stem cells They may be tiny but their impact is earth shaking generating excitement among medical researchers and outright turmoil in political circles They are reported to be nothing short of miraculous But they have also incited fear and mistrust in many Indeed recent research on stem cells raises important questions as rapidly as it generates new discoveries The power of stem cells rests in their unspecialized but marvelously flexible nature They are the clay of life waiting for the cellular signal that will coax them into taking on the shape of the beating cells of the heart muscle or the insulin producing cells of the pancreas With a wave of our medical magic wand it is possible that stem cells could be used to effectively treat even cure diseases such as Parkinson's disease diabetes heart disease autoimmune disorders and even baldness But should scientists be allowed to pick apart four day old embryos in order to retrieve stem cells And when stem cells whisper to us of immortality they can divide and perpetuate new cells indefinitely how do we respond Stem cells are forcing us to not only reexamine how we define the beginning of life but how we come to terms with the end of life as well Meticulously researched artfully balanced and engagingly told Ann Parson chronicles a scientific discovery in progress exploring the ethical debates describing the current research and hinting of a spectacular new era in medicine The Proteus Effect is as timely as it is riveting

Hatching Jenni Quilter, 2022-12-06 A provocative examination of reproductive technologies that questions our understanding of fertility motherhood and the female body Since the world's first test tube baby was born in 1978 in vitro fertilization has made the unimaginable possible for millions of people but its revolutionary potential remains unrealized Today fertility centers continue to reinforce conservative norms of motherhood and family and infertility remains a deeply emotional experience many women are reluctant to discuss In this vivid and incisive personal and cultural history Jenni Quilter explores what it is like to be one of those women both the site of a bold experiment and a potential mother caught between fearing and yearning Quilter observes her own experience with the eye of a critic recounting the pleasures and pains of objectification how medicine mediates between women and their bodies how marketing redefines pregnancy and early parenthood as a set of products how we celebrate the natural and denigrate the artificial With nuance empathy and a fierce intellect Quilter asks urgent questions about what it means to desire a child and how much freedom reproductive technologies actually offer Her writing embraces the complexities of motherhood and the humanity of IVF the waiting rooms the message boards and the genetic permutations of what a thoroughly modern family might mean
