The U.S. Air Force relies on RDT&E to support the development of new technologies, programs, and systems. The Air Force is the largest user of RDT&E in the federal government. The Air Force's RDT&E program is organized into six major areas: (1) Department of Defense standards for equipment used in combat to help ensure they can be used in extreme conditions for high-temperature, high-altitude, and vibration; (2) Component standards for aircraft and engine components; (3) Component standards for engine and engine components; (4) Component standards for engine and engine components; (5) Component standards for engine and engine components; (6) Component standards for engine and engine components.
